WASHINGTON LETTER.

[Our Special Correspondence.]

WASHINGTON, July 13, 1891.

Secretary Rusk who has been working unusually hard—he is never a drone—since his return from the Pacific coast with the President's party, owing to the transfer of the Weather bureau and other important departmental business incidental to the beginning of a new fiscal year, will leave Washington this week for a vacation. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Rusk, and his son, Blaine, and at Chicago the family will be joined by Miss Rusk who has been visiting the daughters of Secretary Foster at Fostoria, Ohio. The family are all looking forward to a delightful rest at the old Wisconsin homestead.

Secretary Foster, like the level-headed man that he is, declined to make any specific answer to the five column-tirade which Mr. Powderly has launched in the shape of an open letter addressed to Mr. Foster, concerning the trouble about the discharge of the seven Knights of Labor from the Bureau of Engraving and printing, further than to characterize it as being so abusive and untruthful as to place it under the suspicion fo being intended to be used as a democratic campaign document. The publication of this open letter shows very bad judgement on the part of Mr. Powderly, and incorporation there in a copy of a letter which he knew was taken from the desk of Secretary Foster without his knowledge or consent by one of his colleagues on the Knights of Labor executive committe—Devlin and Hays—during the committee's conference with Secretary Foster, was still worse.

No more interesting soldiers reunion was ever held in Washington than that of the Twenty-fifth New York cavalry, which convened here on Saturday. On that day twenty seven years ago, the gallant men of the old twentyfifth although only about 700 in number by an exhibition of soldierly nerve that was not surpassed during the civil war, succeeded in preventing the capture of Washington by Gen. Early, who had swooped down upon the town with 30,000 men expecting to find it entirely unprotected. When the twenty-fifth boldly mounted the breastworks and marched to meet Early's advancing line of battle he supposed them to be the skirmish line of the Sixth corps which he knew was expected at Washington and he retreated, thus throwing away an opportunity that was never to come again. It was very interesting to hear the veterans tell of how President Lincoln, in a long linen duster and a black slouch hat, circulated among the men on that memorable day and spoke words of cheer to them notwithstanding the gloomy outlook. The old soldiers met with a hearty welcome, as they deserved to, from the Washingtons, many of whom remember the joy with which these same men, and their comrades now gone to answer the last roll call, were received on that other July day.

The scientific party from the Agriculture department is now on its way to the arid section, of eastern Kansas, where the attempt is to be made on a grand scale to produce rain by artifical methods. The party carried 60 ballons, ten feet in diameter when expanded, which are to be filled with a combination of oxygen and hydrogen gas and exploded high in the air by means of an electric wire attached to the balloons; 100 kites, five feet high, to the tails of which are to be attached dynamite bombs and other explosives and a lot of wood mortars to be used to throw bombs from. These things are to be scattered along a prairie for a mile or two, and the intention is to keep up the explosions continuously for at least two entire days. The result will be anxiously looked for here, for while there is nobody who has dared to say that the thing cannot be done there are many who are more or less sceptical about it. If it is a success it will rank as one of the greatest discoveries of this age of great discoveries, and will make many million acres of land, now almost worthless, very valuable for agricultural purpose.

The controversey between Mr. Nicolay, of Washington, who was Mr. Lincoln's private Secretary and other gentlemen as to whether Mr. Lincoln favored the nomination of Andrew Johnson for Vice President in 1864 is an entirely useless one, and except for the dearth of more important news it would never have gained the prominence that has been given it for some days past in the newspapers, and even if it were an all important subject the exchange of abuse between Mr. Nicolay and Col McClure, editor of the Philadelphia Times would throw no light upon it.

Washington is in dead earnest about securing next year's encampment of the G. A. R. and the delegates to Detroit will carry with them a cordial invitation and the assurance that $100,000 has been subscribed by the citizens of Washington for the entertainment of the veterans next year, as committee of prominent citizen may also go to Detroit.

The Nicolay McClure Controversey.

John G. Nicolay, exprivate secretary of President Lincoln, and Col A. K. McClure are having quite a tilt as to just who President Lincoln favored for Vice President during his second term. Thus for Col McClure seems to be in the lead as he is sustained by both Quay and our townsman ExGovernor Curtin. In an interview published in a Pittsburg paper, Governor Curtin is represented as saying:

"I never heard of anything else but McClure's idea. I always regarded it as a settled matter that Lincoln wanted Johnson as a matter of policy; and I never thought that prejudice, or anything of that sort inspired Lincoln in the least in any of his actions, so far at least as they relate to Hamlin; and I believe the policy he pursued in desiring Johnson was a most commendable one.

"It was proper and advisable to recognize a state of the union from the southern section by selecting one of her prominent, loyal and worthy sons, as Johnson was and not keep everything up North, and thereby show a laudable disposition to settle the differences existing between the two sections of the country. I firmly believe that Lincoln was considering only the interest of the nation, and not his personal feeling at all, when he favored Johnson.

"As far as I know all the other loyal governors held the same attitude towards Lincoln's policy as I did. It was an order of Lincoln's to make the governors of loysl states ever preferred and always admissiable into his presence, no matter what he was doing, because he always took it for granted that they called to see him on some vital and important matter; and so I had frequent confidential interviews with Lincoln, and I must say I never saw either Nicolay or Hay in the room.

"The position Nicolay has taken in the controversy I think is absurd, and he will not be sustained in it by any men that have any truly personal knowledge of Lincoln's policy and the motives that inspired it. I know very well that McClure went to Baltimore to work for Johnson and I approved of the scheme most heartily."

Women and Baseball.

We are always glad to chronicle a new idea, especially when it possessed of such great merit as that which is now presented to us in the August number of Demorest' Family Magazine, which has just arrived. One of the leading articles is a game of beseball all played out on paper by means of finely executed illustrations with explicit descriptions of each move. Those who have attempted to explain the game of baseball to a sister, wife, or wife-to-be, know what an almost hopeless task it was. Now here is the whole thing done for you and so cleverly and clearly that after reading it a women will be as anxious as any one of the other sex to see a match, and she will never again say, "Well! what is there in baseball, anyhow?" The article will save you hours of explanation, and shows the enterprise of this progressive Magazine, which strives to give the public just what they want. This August number is certainly very attractive. "A "A Happy Day at Cairo," with its beautiful illustrations, gives a splendid ieea of home life in Egypt; "Summer's Bird" is one of Olive Thorne Miller's charming papers; "The Game of Lawd Crooketta" describes the new pastime that is almost as fascinating as tennis; there are absorbing stories and beautiful poems; all the numerous departments are overflowing with good and seasonable things; and in addition there are over two hundred fine illustration ncluding a beautiful water-color of "Swallows." It is published by W. Jennings Demorest, at 15 East 14th St., New York. Price 20 cents; or $2 per year. Any of our local newsdealers will be glad to supply it.

Amelie Rivers' Silence

The literary event of the summer in the United States will be the publication in the Cosmopolitan Magazine of a short novel by Amelie Rivers, which she calls "According to St. John." It is said to be the strongest work from the pen that produced "A Brother to Dragons" and "The Quick or the Dead." Its publication in the Cosmopolitan is a guarantee that it will contain nothing of the kind that excited criticism in Miss Rivers' earlier productinons.

During her two years' residence abroad, Mrs. Chanler has written nothing eles for the public, and this product of her matured mind may be expected to register with something like exactness, this author's position in the world of letters.

—A host of visitors in town these days.

BRAZILIAN CANNIBALISM.

A little three column sheet newspaper arrived in New York Thursday from Chihuahua, Santa Rosalia, South America, which bore the sensational news, printed in Spanish, that at Salinas, State of Minas, Brazil, Clement Viera has been arrested for eating human flesh Viera confessed that he and his friends, Basilio and Leonrdo, had eaten human flesh and lived upon it because they liked it, having acquired the taste by eating a piece of one of Leondro's dead children.

Viera says he subsequently killed and ate a woman, and a few days later slaughtered a man named Simplisio and invited his friends Francisca and Severrto to help him eat the latter. Simpliso's two children later on furnished the three with food for two weeks.

Then, when Basilio had stolen a shirt from Viera, the latter killed and ate part of him, but was discovered before he had emptied the salt barrel of the remainder of the cured flesh.

The man says he roasted or boiled the portions he ate. He did not relish them highly, as they were sweeter that other flesh.

Viera will be tried for the shocking offense, the paper states.

The Weather and the Crops.

The weather crop bulletin issued by the Pennsylvania state weather service contains the following relative to the weather and the progress of the crops or the week ending July 10:

The temperature during the past week has been considerably below the normal. An apparent deficiency of from seven to ten degrees per day throughout the state. The lack of sunshine and cold has retarded the growth of corn.

Rain has been plentiful and in many places too much has fallen to be of benefit to crops. Harvesting and haying is progressing. Large crops have been housed and much more is ready to reap. The late rains have delayed the harvest. The yield of wheat is reported as excellent and of fine quality. The oats crop will be larger than was anticipated. The heavy hailstorm of the 3d did much damage to corn, tobacco and fruit in the central portions of the state. The storm was very severe in some localities and its course extended along the Susquehanna river through the state. The crops as a whole are reported as being in a very satisfactory condition and the season is regarded as a prosperous one.

Making Rain To Order.

Colonel Dyrenforth, of the Department of Agriculture, with two assistants, left Washington, Wednesday, for the interior of Texas, where he will make further experiments in the feasibility of producing rain in arid regions by exploding balloons charged with oxygen and hydrogen at a considerable height in the air. Tests will also be made in exploding dynamite attached to the tails of huge kites in connection with the theory that rain may be produced by the concussion of high explosives in midair.

The dynamite is to be exploded in the same manner as are the balloons; that is, by a slender wire leading to the kites, and connected with an electaic battery worked on the ground.

Colonel Dyrenforth will seek some sequestered spot in Texas, and will then make a thorough and exhaustive experiment as to whether or not rain can be produced when needed by means of explosions near the clouds.

Congress last session appropriated $7,000 to carry out these experiments.

Second Brigade Encampment

The following order has just been issued from headquarters;

1. Pursuant to General Orders Nos. 9 and 13, C. S., Headquarters National Guard of Pennsylvania, to which order the attention of all is directed, this Brigade will encamp at Arnold's Station, on the Allegheny Valley Railroad, from August 8th, to 16th both inclusive. The encampment will be known as camp Kensington.

11. The several organizations of the Brigade, properly equipped, will report on the grounds not later than the evening of the 7th of August, provided with cooked rations to last until the forenoon of the next day. Mounted officers will provide themselves with horses and the necessary equipment.

111. Details for preparing the camp will be made from the various organizations and will proceed so that at least two full days, the 6th and 7th, may be had for work on the grounds, and will be in charge of a commissioned officer from each regiment, troop or battery and a medical officer from each regiment, who will upon arrival report to Maj. A. J. Logan, of these headquarters whose headquarters will be established on the ground on the 4th. The officers and men composing the detail will be held to a strict accountability for the services and deportment and shall be subject to the closest observance of soldierly discipline.

The Company Store Law.

The new "company store" bill approved by Governor Pattison "That no mining or manufacturing corporation engaged in business under the laws of this Commonwealth shall lease, grant, bargain or sell to any officer or stockholder of such corporation, nor to any other person whatever the right to keep or maintain upon the property of any such corporation any company, general supply or other store in which goods other than those mined or manufactured by the corporation granting such right shall be kept or exposed for sale whenever such lease, grant, bargain or sale as aforesaid is intended to defeat the provision of the first section of this act. Nor shall any such mining or manufacturing corporation through its officers, stockholders or by any rule or regulation of its business make any contract with the keeper or owners of any store whereby the employes of such corporation shall be obliged to trade with keeper or owner and that any such contract made in violation of this act shall be prima facie evidence of the fact that such store is under the control of such mining or manufacturing coporation and in the violation of this act." The penalty for violation is a forfeit of the company's charter.

$10,000,000 Treasury Error.

The $10,000,000 blunder of a clerk in footing a short column of figures last Friday has made the lives of the Treasury magnates at Washington a burden. Somebody in the Treasurer's office had circulated a rumor that, in accordance with the general policy of the Secretary of the Treasury of making no distinction which could be avoided between the different classes of government assests, the silver dollars and the bullion accumulated under the Silver Act of 1878, and those accumulated under the Act of 1890, and the bullion made from redeemed trade dollars, were to be treated as one common fund thereafter. Accordingly, the clerk who had charge of making out the statement for the close of business on July 1 added the amounts of the three items together, making a total, as he figured it, of $369,802,560. Thus it was given out to the press associations on Friday morning July 3.

Unhappily, the addition of the three lines of figures was done so carelessly that, by an omission to "cerry one" in a certain place, the total was made $10,000,000 too small. This failure to "carry one" was what made all the trouble when the mistake was discovered.

To Avoid Dead Letters.

The Dead Letter Office has just published a large volume of nearly 800 pages, which is expected to be of great service, and to materially reduce the number of letters which annually go to the office because of imperfect addresses. The volume is entitled "Street Director of the principal cities of the United States," A great deal of time and patient attention to details has been expended upon the collection and systematic arrangement of the contents of the book. All the streets, square, "lanes," "roads," of the same names in the nearly 500 free delivery offices of this country, are carefully grouped, and so displayed as to facilitate search.

The highest and the lowest numbers on each of these streets are given, to assist postmasters in correcting imperfect addresses where the street name is found in more than one town. This directory is furnished to postmasters at the free delivery offices for use in perfecting the addresses for such letters and parcels as may reach thier offices, though manifestly intended for delivery elesswhere.

Desirable but Very Dubious.

The Pittsburg Dispatch says that a report has been received in that city to the effect that the Pennsylvania railway company is preparing to establish electric light plants by which the whole line of the road will be illuminated. Stations and towns will be lighted first before work on the line is commenced. The new move will be hailed with delight, not only by patrons of the road, but by the people who live in the neighborhood of and along whose property will be furnished with light.

—Messers. Hopkins & Weymouth cut from the 5000 acre tract of land at Snow Shoe 40,000,000 feet of white pine lumber, and 10,000,000 feet of oak and hemlock. The tract is now entirely cleared of lumber.

FASHIONS AT SARATOGA.

The hotel piazzas and principal streets of Saratoga, present a varied picture of beauty and fashion, displaying human vanity in all its gradations; from the baby nestling in soft, silken folds, to the imperious grandmother rustling in rich brocade. For morning wear, some ladies select very expensive materials, and it is not unusual to see elegant silk costumes on the verandas of the "States" and the "Union," at nine o'clock in the morning. Others prefer simple breakfast dresses of dimity, trimmed with one or two white lace flounces with round waist or slightly pointed basque, and lace jabot or ruffling in front. Many pretty morning dresses are of figured lawn, Cleopatra cloth, white dotted muslin, or light colored challi, lavishly ornamented with lace or velvet ribbon of a darker shade, and a skilful disposition of the various fichus, jabots, chemisettes or plastrons now included in a lady's wardrobe, gives a constant change of toilet; several different waists being also admissible with one handsome skirt of an unpronounced material. A very simple yet attractive costume worn by a prominent society belle with blue eyes and golden hair, is of white nun's veiling, made sheath shirt and having one flounce trimmed with inch wide gold galloon, and another row of narrow galloon on the ruffle heading the flounce. The waist is a pointed basque, with simulated yoke formed by bands of galloon; sleeves high and cuffs bordered to match. Finish is given by a white fringed parasol and a Leghorn shade hat trimmed with gilt brocaded ribbon and white lilacs, thus completing a lovely picture of youth and beauty.

AN EVENING DRESS

from an importing house on Fifth Avenue, made especially for a hop at one of the principal hotels, is a very fine meshed black net, with pink satin stripes, about a quarter of an inch wide and two inches apart, over a sheath skirt of pink satin, with the stripes running lengthwise and on the flounce, the net is used crosswise, causing the stripes to run with the flounce. The low-necked waist is round and very full, with ends put under the skirt and pink satin belt. The short sleeves are formed by one full puff, the stripes being in accordance with those on the flounces. The great predominance of thin fabrics, such as crepe, crepe de Chine, mousseline de soie, chiffon grenadine in light shades or black, and nets, is noticeable; these are used over colored silk imparting a soft, airy brightness, and ruffles of black or colored chiffon are often put between two of the dress material, as well as sleeves of black chiffon, where a snbduing effect is needed.

WHILE THE YOUNG PEOPLE are carrying on their flirtations in every available nook and corner, groups of married ladies discuss household affairs, naturally drifting towards the subject of ladies underwear, and it is remarkable how unanimously they agree that there is nothing like Pride of the West for this purpose, as it is more durable than any other muslin. never cracks nor turns yellow. It is especially desirable for skirts, being sufficiently heavy and finer than cambric muslin. Shade hats may or may not match the costume, and those in black or white are most serviceable harmonizing with all colors. Leghorn and Neapolitan flats turned up at the back are very much worn and trimmed with trailing sprays of flowers, enlivened by rich velvet or brocaded ribbon. A very large hat of black lace straw, worn by a beautiful blonde on the veranda of a leading hotel, had eleven large crimson roses grouped on the side and back, with high loops of black lace and fine gilt pins, and attracted an unusual share of attention, the dress was of dotted black lace, over crimson taffeta silk.

VERONA CLARKE.

New China Set for the White House.

A very handsome new china table service is being manufactured for the White House. The carelessness of servants and the inevitable accidents which attend the serving of a big State dinner have reduced the famous Grant china and the Haviland set, know as the Haves china, until there is hardly enough of it left to serve the Cabinet. Mrs. Harrison has been thinking the matter over and has ordered the expenditure of some of the appropriation for repair in the purchasing of a new service for which a special design has been prepared by Mr. Paul Putzki.

The coloring is blue and gold. The plates wijl be bordered in a deep marine blue, shot with tiny blue stars. Standing out from this background will be a garland formed of ears of corn, also in gilt. Mrs. Harrison selected the corn as typical of America and incidentaily as a delicate compliment to the Hoosier State. In the centre of each plate will be the shield and eagle which always appear on each piece of china specially made for White House use. The service will comprise six dozen of every piece necessary to serve an elaborate dinner,

Orders have also been given for the importation of a handsome cut-class service for state occasions. The President and Mrs. Harrison selected the designs of the glassware a month or two ago. In the new service are several novel shapes in the water goblets, claret, champaign and liquor glasses each with the coat of arms engraved upon it.

Tarec Items from Philipsburg.

Jas. Wood, a 11-year-old son of Mr Scott Wood, residing at Loch Lohmond, while in swimming Saturday evening, ventured out in deep water, and before he could be rescued by the other boys present, was drowned. His body was taken from the water, and physicians hastily summoned, in the hope that there might be a possibility of saving the boy's life, but unfortunately death had set its seal upon the little fellow, and no human agency could restore him to life. The sad affair was a great shock to his parents.

Miss Clara Bailey, daughter of Samuel Bailey, of Morrisdale Mines, a young lady well known in Philipsburg, where she has frequently visited, died at Altoona on Saturday morning, where she had gone the Monday previous to visit her sister. She has not been in good health for a couple months, but her death was very much of a surprise to her friends. She was only about 19 years old, and a young lady held in high esteem by all who knew her. Her remains were brought to this place on Saturday evening, and taken to Morrisdale by Haworth Brothers, where the funeral took place this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Mr. Austin Dillon, of Allport, a couple weeks ago fell from a scaffold on which he was standing while engaged in doing carpenter work and received a painful injury to his right arm. He was examined and treated for what was supposed to be simply a severe bruise near the elbow, but as the pain failed to decrease he was advised to visit the Cottage Hospital for treatment. He came here on Saturday and an examination by Dr. Allport soon indicated that the man had been going about for two weeks with a dislocated shoulder. The Doctor, assisted by Dr. Harmon, soon put the dislocated member in its proper place, and with a little care he will be all right again in the near future. Mr. Dillon will remain at the hospital for a few days. —Journal.

Only Two Months a Widower.

A special dispatch from Chautauqua says: A few days ago Charles Wadsworth, of Huntingdon, Pa., came to Chautauqua. Charles was a young widower of fine appearance, his wife having died last April. The fame of Chautauqua, with its splendid advantages for study and recreation, had reached his ears and as a diversion began a course of study.

Nellie Parker, a petite little brunette from Cataraugas county, New York, pretty, but poor, ambitious, plucky and energetic, also came to Chautauqua, obtained employment in the dining-room of the Fox cottage and during spare moments was likewise pursuing a course of study. Wadsworth at the first meeting was attracted by the superb features of pretty Nellie Parker. As she arranged the delicate viands about his plate his eyes rested upon her shapely hands, and as if drawn by some irresistable power they wandered along that pretty arm until he caught the magnet of that fine face, and for the first time their glances met.

The die was cast, and each succeeding evening on the balcony facing the setting sun they sat. His widower weeds were all forgotten, and Saturday night they rowed over the lake to Point Chautauqua, where they caught the train for Jamestown for the purpose of being married.

Public School Pupils,

The pupils of the public schools are beginning to contemplate the approaching term with various feelings, the controlling sentiment however being that the reunion with companions and friends over the books and lessons will be a pleasant rather than an unpleasant experience. The long vacation finally grows tiresome and the children feel like returning to their studies when when the time comes, but still they yet have considerable time before they will be called on to obey once more the ringing of the bell in the morning and at noon. Let them enjoy the time from this on and be ready when the time comes to improve their minds with the same eagerness that they have exercised their physical frames during the play spell.

—It is only just to predict a good crop of corn this year, providing the weather continues the next month as it has been the past few weeks. Warm weather with plenty of rain will give a good crop of corn in most any kind of soil.

ASHES.

"Tell me, Age, life's greatest joy."
Cried an eager, rosy boy.

"Is it Childhood's want of care,
Boyhood's dreams and visions rare,

Youth's first sip of passion's wine,
Manhood's stay at wisdom's shrine,

Or the calm at set of sun
When the heart repeats 'Well done?'"

"Ah," Age answered, "not in these
Life its sweetest pleasure sees.

But in memories of woe
That the heart no more can know."

TAGGART'S LITTLE WOMAN.

She stood in the doorway of our cabin looking in upon as rough a set of miners as ever bunked in one lot, an' we all stopped eatin' an' held our forks in the air to stare at her.

She was the peartest and prettiest thing our eyes had seen in six months, and she stood there barefoot and sunburned, with a tangle of gold hair hanging over her shoulders an' a color in her little face that shamed the wild roses.

"Please hev ye ennything to eat ye could lend us? Pap 'lowed he'd like to borry some bread an' tea an' he'd come here to sleep s' he wouldn't trubble ye to move the things an' pap 'lowed ef ye didn't wanter spare 'em we could sleep in the haystack and drink water from the spring."

She said it all in a breathless way like a lesson she had learned, and stood shamefacedly on one little foot waiten fur an answer.

"Cum in—fetch yer dad—of course ye're as welcome as roses in Janivery. But fust like—what's yer name, little lady? What might we call yer?"

"Pap calls me Taggart's little woman."

We had heard of Taggart, but not of his child. So he was her father, the oneriest, laziest loafer in the county, not vicious, but of no earthly account to himself nor anybody else.

An' now we were to have him saddled on us. The little woman had gone off on the run and we set out two extra tin plates kept for company and two shinin' new mugs and dished up some more of the squirrel stew and the last of the baked potatoes for our visitors.

They came in together, hand in hand, and we gave Taggart as cordial a welcome as we could, 'count of his child. For we were glad, every man of us, to install Taggart's little woman at our cabin table, and to endure her father for her sake.

An' we never repented of it either. Why, that little mite, bless her, was like a letter from home every day in the year. She was the light of our eyes afore she had been with us a month, and we coddled her good for nothin' dad jest 'cause he was her dad, and she loved him with all the power of her little heart. We all 'lowed that she was too good for him, but when we come to sift the evidence we found that he had cared for her ever since her mother died in a prairie schooner and she were a mite of a baby.

Now you wouldn't believe that any man would be so shiftless, but it air a fact. He had been seven years tryin' to earn enough money to take that young un back East to her grandmother. And here he was without a cent to his name. Liquor? No. He drank with the rest of us, but not more than the law allowed and the climate warranted.

He was just that unlucky that he could not seem to make a day's wages and live on them like anybody else. We hired him to wash our findings, and he lost the dust and saved the refuse, and then he stared, stupid like, when we talked to him, and acted queer.

One or twice he went to Miners' Town, and come home in that same way. There was two Chinamen come along one day, and we run them off lively, an' when we did Taggart he lit out without a word in the way they had gone as if he were crazy.

Then Green, one of our men, said in a low voice:

"I reckon I've got it!"

"Is it typhoid?" asked another of the gang.

"No," says Green: "it's opium."

"That's why he don't work."

"An' the reason he can't go East."

"Air ye talkin' about my pappy?"

It was the child's little voice at our elbows, and we all jumped like we'd been caught stealin'. So Green told her the story of the "Three Bears" and the "Cat That was a Princess," and when Taggart came shuffling in, with his hang dog look, she was laughin', and havin' the best kind o' time. But soon's she saw him she was anxious and worried, but he just ran his hand over her hair, and says he:

"How would Taggart's little woman like to go East and live in a fine house and hev lots of money and good clothes and edication?"

"Fust rate, pap," says the little woman, "and all them could come along," motionin' to us.

Bless her little heart! She was gettin' as fond of us as we was of her.

"I wonder if Taggart's little woman could make a rabbit pie," says Green one mornin'.

"Jest you try me," came quick as a flash. "Stop some rabbits fur me an' see me cook 'em in pork an' seasonin'."

"There's a old gun in that loft that's got fine bird shot in it," said Green. "Ye kin hev that, Taggart, to hunt with. Ef ye air no better at shootin' rabbits than ye air at pannin' gold dust them rabbits will live to be Methusalums."

I was tied to my chair with a lame foot, so I watched the little woman gittin' the dough ready for the rabbit pie. She was a picture, with her bright eyes and pretty ways, and she had fixed her up with some things we bought at Miners' Town specially for her. As I looked at her I thought what a difference her being there made. I couldn't remember when any of us had used a swear word.

"Little woman, can yer read?" I asked.

"No, mister; but pappy can," was the answer. "An I'm goin' ter learn how soon's ever I go East ter my grammaw."

"But s'pose we want yer to stay here?"

"Then I'll stay, if pap ... I like you uns real well."

"May be we'll all ... n.

It's time yer pap were here now with them rabbits."

"I'm goin' out to s'prise him," said the child, wipin' the flour from her hands and snatchin' her sunbonnet from its nail.

I heerd a shot after that, but strange to say, neither Taggart nor little woman showed up.

When the boys came in the pork was fryin' for the rabbit pie, and the crust were baked an' in the dish, but that were all.

"What were the shot I heerd?" asked Jim Menden, an Ohio boy, who was one of us.

"That were Taggart out in the bush after rabbits."

"What gun did ye give him—mine?"

"Yes; Green give it to him 'cause it were loaded with bird shot."

"It weren't. It had a bullet for antelope."

"Then that was the shot we heerd," said Green. "I hope he ain't shot his own foolish head off."

He had hardly got the words out of his mouth before every man—himself among them—had left the cabin on the run. I cussed the lameness that kept me from going.

I warn't surprised when I heard them coming back, after such a long time, with slow and measured steps, carryin' some burden 'atween them. I knew it must be Taggart had hurt himself.

They came to the cabin door, and every man had his hat off, an' what they carried was small.

"Little woman!" I cried out the word. "Where's Taggart's little woman?"

Some one turned the coat from the sweet face and I saw her just as her father spoke up, with more dignity than I ever saw him hev before.

"There air Lynch law for murderers," he said, with his head drooping, "an' there air plenty here to see it done. Gentlemen, I don't keer to wait. I'm a murderer in deed but not in intent. Oh, my little woman! Her pap as wouldn't have harmed a ha'r o' her head—he did the deed, an' he will die for it like a man."

But Taggart's dying would not have brought her back. We went to Miners' Town and hed the authorities come out to investigate it, an' we give little woman such a funeral as a princess might envy, for we dug her grave with our own hands and blubbered over it.

But that was a lonely home coming when we left her for the last time out in the hills, and went back into the cabin where she had shed such light, an' saw her father sittin' there, bowed with his own trouble, which, after all, couldn't have been much worse than ourn. Only it was his stupid bungling that had killed her, when she went creeping along on her hands and knees in the brush to 'sprise him, and he had mistaken her for a rabbit.

We couldn't like the man before this, an' now it was hard not to hate him but for one fact—he was her father, the "pappy" that Taggart's little woman had loved. So we did our best fur him, but it wasn't fur long. One day we missed him, and looked for him at our general roundup—little woman's grave. Yes, he was there, but stretched out, cold and still, an' whether he died of a broken heart or an overdose of his drug we never knowed. There we buried him.

Green himself carved these words on the board at the head:

TAGGART'S LITTLE WOMAN
AND HER PAPPY.

Pet Lions.

An amusing sketch of two lion whelps which were adopted as pets during the writer's residence in South Africa, is given by a contributor to Forest and Stream. The lioness appeared to amuse herself by playing pranks on human strangers of her own sex, lying in ambush for them under the dining table.

Fearing that something serious might occur if I allowed my pets their liberty any longer, I had a large cage constructed, and for the first week or two was obliged to spend much time in it with them. The lioness fretted a great deal, and the only way I had of quieting her was to go in and lie down, using the lion as a pillow, while she stretched herself beside me with her head on my chest.

One day the sheriff informed me that he had a summons in his office for me to serve as a juryman. I begged off, but he was inexorable. A few days afterward he rode up to my gate, and I called my servant to open it for him while I hurried to the lion's cage.

Presently I heard him calling me, and on my answering he gradually found his way to the den, in which I was seated on the lion's recumbent body, while the lioness sat behind me with her chin resting on my shoulder. As soon as he saw me he sprang back, and cried:

"Come out of there!"

"Hand that summons in here, and I will do so."

"Do you want my arm torn off?"

"No, but I want you to make a legal service of that paper by handing it to me."

"I shall not take any such risk, but I will tear up the paper if you will only come out and save me from seeing you torn into pieces."

"All right, do so, and I will try to get out alive."

The paper was torn up, and I stepped out of the cage, much to my friend's relief. A short time after I met the judge in the street, who wished to know if my mode of dodging jury duty was the one commonly practiced in my own country.

HORSES WHO BATHE.

Blue Blooded Aristocrats in the Surf at Coney Island.

The most aristocratic of Coney Island's many visitors, the first to come and the last to go, are the blue blooded racers from the Gravesend stables. There can be no doubt of their pretensions to noble ancestry, and their fame is known to all the world. These distinguished visitors inaugurate the bathing season and give an air of life and vivacity to the beaches long before summer fairly comes.

"Go soak your feet," they are told, and instead of taking the suggestion as an insult, as human aristocrats would take it, they wade out into the breakers and seem to enjoy softening their hoofs.

The best time to see the race horses bathe is between 5 and 6 o'clock. They come trooping down to the beach in all sorts of picturesque costumes. Some are swathed from head to tail in blanket suits of gigantic plaids or gaudy reds and yellows. Others affect low cut dusters of modest colors, and a few come stripped, with nothing on but their light shoes. The beauties step daintily down to the very edge of the water, and then, like fashionable human bathers, they hesitate. The waves look cold and wet. Sir Knight rises, as if to leap the ocean, and then plunges in with a great splutter and splash that wets the bare legs of the colored boy on his back. He churns the water into foam about him and whirls suddenly, as if for a true start. My Lady goes in, a step at a time, and draws back coyly from each threatening wave. She knows better than to plunge, and is coaxed, not driven. If she is only timid she hangs her head and shivers, with the feet all bunched up beneath her. If she is very brave she goes out into deep water and turns her tail to the combers.

It is great sport for the crowd in the pavilion when the water is full of horses. The spectators applaud when a groom, in spite of his shouting and yanking, is carried out upon dry land, and if a rider gets a bucketful of water in his face they howl with delight. When the bath is over and the wet clothes are stripped off the flyers roll and wallow in the dry sand. They shake themselves, leap playfully to the end of their bridle reins, and roll again. Twenty roll at once, and when they spring up they send the sand flying in every direction. They are athletes, every one of them, and as graceful as kittens in their horse play. When they are finally ridden off to the stables they don't need a bracer to keep them from catching cold.

GUTTA PERCHA IS DISAPPEARING.

The Malayans Kill a Tree in Order to Secure One Yield of Sap.

It appears that there exists a serious risk of the extermination of the plant or tree from which gutta percha is obtained. This gum is used in many industries, largely in the manufacture of submarine cables, as it is capable of sustaining its insulating qualities when submerged under water at great depths; in fact, the insulation of gutta percha actually improves with age when kept continually under water. The disappearance of the curious tree from which gutta percha is obtained would, therefore, be a calamity of worldwide importance, yet it would appear from a report recently made to the French Academy of Sciences that we are actually threatened with such a calamity.

The French government, recognizing the importance of possessing an intimate knowledge of the source of supply of this precious material, intrusted to M. Serullas, a distinguished scientist, the task of exploring the Malayan Archipelago, which is the home of the isonandra gutta, with a view to studying the peculiarities of the tree and methods employed in cultivating it and extracting the gum. M. Serullas spent three years in Malay, and studied the isonandra in all periods of its existence, acquiring a complete knowledge of its natural history and physiology, but he reports that there is absolutely no method in the manner employed by the natives in robbing the tree of its sap, and that no effort is made to cultivate and propagate so valuable a member of the plant world. The natives adopt the wholly barbarous custom of cutting a tree at the roots in order to extract the gum; thus each tree only gives one yield, and is then dead forever. No wonder gutta percha is rapidly getting to be worth its weight in silver.—[Electrical Review.

It's Worry That Kills.

It is not the work, but the worry which kills. There is no tonic for the body like regular work of the mind, though this is unfortunately not often appreciated or not allowed by the physicians to whom anxious mothers take their growing daughters. There is nothing so sure to steady the nerves of the fretful and excitable child as regular school work in the hands of a real teacher. Many a child who is celebraded for dangerous fits of temper at home becomes entirely transformed under the influence of such a school, till her nearest relatives would not recognize her if they should ever take the time and the trouble to visit the schoolroom. I do not mean a schoolroom full of competitive examinations, of "marks," and of irrelevant inducements to make the child commit to memory a mass of unrelated and undigested facts—I mean one where, without any inducement but the natural desire for knowledge, which is all sufficient with any American child if it be rightly directed, you find steady and well ordered labor, without haste, though not without rest, and honest, thorough, and pleasureable work. We may learn a lesson from this fact—for it is no theory—of the effect of regular work on our tired nerves, and wise shall we be if we apply it. Even the most consistent homeopathic physician could not object to this kind of tonic, though he would tell you, and truly, that tonics are worse than of no use for overworked nerves.—[Harper's Magazine.

A MARRIED MAN.

Vain things farewell, you must delight no more;
Old pipe, adieu; your scent the curtain so—
'Tis strange I've never noticed it before—
A few more puffs, old friend, and you must go.
No little game of "draw." Well, that's all right;
The boys can visit Charley now, or Ned.
No more sweet songs to while a summer's night,
Though we sang charmingly, she often said.
No "peculiar auras," they're tabooed;
I must keep early hours, must cut the boys—
In fact, I must be very, very good
And give up all the charms de garçon joys,
So the old order passeth; these must go.
These photographs, I'll toss them in the grate.
Clara's a fair belle, Pupita, Bonnie, no;
I'll keep them; but I'll hide them, though from Kate.
Pipe, pictures, pocula, all under ban;
Vana valete! I'm a married man.

BIG FACTS IN LITTLE SPACE.

Blonde hair is the finest and red the coarsest.

Only one person in a thousand dies of old age.

One-half the people that are born die before the age of 16.

An inch of rain means 100 tons of water on every acre.

There are at least 10,000,000 nerve fibers in the human body.

Three and a half millions of people are always on the seas of the world.

The receipts of the French treasury are larger than those of any other civilized nation.

The thickness of the human hair varies from the two-hundredth and fiftieth to the six-hundredth part of an inch.

A luminous buoy has been invented, the light of which is produced by phosphuret of calcium, and is visible two and a half miles away.

It takes about three seconds for a message to go from one end of the Atlantic cable to the other. This is about 700 miles a second.

A recent survey has established the number of glaciers in the Alps at 1155, of which 249 have a length of more than four and three-quarter miles.

A grain of carmine or half a grain of aniline will tinge a hogshead of water so that a strong microscope will detect coloring matter in every drop.

About 450 B. C. the Ionians first introduced the present system of writing from left to right; previous to the above date, from right to left prevailed.

Elsie's Numerous Grandparents.

Elsie Chase, daughter of Charles and Clara Chase, of Yarmouth, has more grandfathers and grandmothers than any child in Massachusetts, all of whom are now living. I give below the names:

Edward and Mary Chase, grandfather and grandmother.

Charles and Emma Ellis, grandfather and grandmother.

Charles and Jane Ellis, great grandfather and great grandmother.

Jerry and Cordelia Chase, great grandfather and great grandmother.

Matthews and Ruth B. Gray, great grandfather and great grandmother.

Adeline Nickerson, great great grandmother.

Jerry Walker, great great grandfather.

This is very remarkable; six grandfathers and six grand mothers, and all living, making a collection that has no equal in this country.—[Cape Cod Item.

The Germans and Parisian Society.

French feeling against Germany runs very high at the present moment. A member of the German Embassy in Paris, who was recently over here, complained bitterly of the social ostracism to which he and his colleagues are subjected at the hands of the most polite nation of Europe. No section of Parisian society asked them out except to purely official entertainments; they belong to no clubs, and would certainly be black balled if they ventured to put up for any. The events connected with the unfortunate visit of the Empress Frederick and the part the German Embassy played in her ill advised expedition to Versailles, have of course embittered the social relations of French and Germans in Paris not a little.—[Pall Mall Gazette.

Quarrying Slate by Machine.

In the quarrying of slate, which forms one of the great industries of the Lehigh Valley, there is a heavy item of loss by the breakage of blocks of slate in blasting. To obviate this difficulty there has recently been devised a channeling machine, by means of which large blocks of slate can be cut without blasting. One of these machines has been in operation at one of the large quarries at Wind Gap, in Northampton county, and the results are said to have been very successful. The use of such machines will result in the saving of thousands of dollars annually at every quarry.

How Can That Be?

The mantlepiece of an old inn, in ...ire, England, may be found quiz:

... without eyes saw plums on a tree,
... took plums nor left plums.
Pray how can that be?

The answer just below the riddle is this:

The man hadn't eyes, but he had just one eye,
With which on the tree two plums he could spy.
He neither took plums, nor plums did he leave,
But took one and left one, as we may conceive.

Bold Boy.

The principle that "discretion is the better part of valor" is sometimes comprehended quite early. A gentleman heard a young visitor in his house ask his own son, aged 6:

"Which would you rather be—a walking policeman or a mounted policeman?"

"A mounted policeman, of course," said the boy.

"Why?" asked the other.

"'Cause if the roobers came I could get away quicker."

A careless cook never learns the important art of simmering, but either boils food at a gallop or puts it where it really does not cook at all. The surest way is to use a double kettle; then if the water in the outer vessel is boiling the heat of the inner one will be exactly right.

ROBERT PARSONS, Gen. Pass. Agt.

SCRIBNER'S MAGAZINE.

For the coming year will be noteworthy for a number of special features which the Publishers believe are of very unusual interest, and among them may be mentioned:—

SIR EDWIN ARNOLD

contributes to the December number the first of a series of four Articles upon Japan, its people, its ways, and its thoughts. Mr. Robert Blum, who was commissioned to go to Japan for Scribner's Magazine, has prepared a very remarkable series of drawings to illustrate Sir Edwin's papers. Articles upon the recent Japanese Festival will follow, illustrated by Mr Blum.

HENRY M. STANLEY

has prepared for the January number an important article upon "The Pigmies of the Great African Forest." Another contribution in this field will be Mr. J. Scott Keltie's account of the recent African Exhibition held in London. Both papers will be amply illustrated.

THE WRECKER,

a Serial Novel by Robert Louis Stevenson and Lloyd Osborne will run through a large part of the year. Illustrated by Hole. A two-part story by Frank R. Stockton will also appear.

PROF. JAMES BRYCE, M. P.,

author of "The American Commonwealth," will write a series of Four Articles upon India embodying the results of his recent journey and studies on this land of never-dying interest.

OCEAN STEAMSHIPS

will be the subject of an important series somewhat upon the lines of the successful Railroad articles. "Passenger Travel," "The Life of Officers and Men," "Speed and Safety Devices," and "Management," are some of the subjects touched upon and illustrated.

GREAT STREETS OF THE WORLD

is the title of a novel collection of articles on which the author and artist will collaborate to give the characteristics of famous thoroughfares. The first, on Broadway, will be written by Richard Harding Davis and illustrated by Arthur B. Frost. Others will follow on Piccadilly, London; Boulevard, Paris; The Corso, Rome.

WIDE AWAKE

Beginning with the Holiday Number, is permanently enlarged to 100 pages, radiant with new and large type, a new style of page, and fresh, strong literary and pictorial attractions.

MRS. BURTON HARRISON, whose story of "The Anglomaniacs" has been the sensation of the season in The Century, has written for Wide Awake a story called "Diamonds and Toads."

Hon. JOHN D. LONG (ex-Governor of Massachusetts) furnishes six articles, under the general title of Our Government, for the enlightenment of coming citizens—the boys and girls of to-day.

KIRK MUNROE, who lately lived for a time the life of a railroad man, in all phases from parlor car to cattle cage, has put his experience into a thrilling serial for boys called Cab and Caboose. Striking pictures by Edmund H. Garrett.

MARGARET SIDNEY'S new serial, Five Little Peppers Grown Up, will tell more about Polly and Jasper and David and Joel and Phronsie, and others, as it runs through the year. Fifty charming illustrations by Charles Mente.

MARIETTA'S GOOD TIMES will chronicle in her own words, from her own manuscript, the childhood adventures of Marietta Ambrosi.

MISS MATILDA ARCHAMBEAU VAN DORN, a little girl who had a great many ancestors, is an irresistible little folks' serial, by Elizabeth Cumings.

UNUSUALLY INTERESTING ARTICLES, some elaborately pictorial: Dining with Gladstone, by Mrs. John A. Logan; Amy Robart's Embroidery, by Frances A. Humphrey; Mother Goose's Pets, by Agnes Repplier; Gypsies and Gypsying, by Elizabeth Robins Pennell; Some Horses that I Have Known, by Maud Howe; Selute marie College of Wyncheestre by Oscar Fay Adams; Boston's Girl Sculptor, by Mrs. Newberry; The Sugar Crank, by Theodora R. Jenness.

SOME PROBLEMS IN HOROLOGY, by E. H. Hawley of the Smithsonian Institute, Washington, will interest high school students—three sets of Cash Prizes.

The Best of short stories from thousands offered and solicited the past year.

The Landing of the Pilgrims, a fac-simile reproduction of Felicia Hemans's famous poem, from the original MS., now in Pilgrim Hall, Plymouth.

Fine ballads by Graham R. Tomson, Harriet Prescott Spofford, Mary E. Bradley and Laura E. Richards, beautifully illustrated by Garrett, Sandham and Taylor.

The ever popular Ways to do Things, the School and Playground Stories, Tangles Post-Office and Men and Things.

WIDE AWAKE is only $2.40 a year.

Harper's Young People.

An Illustrated Weekly.

The Twelfth Volume of Harper's Young People begins on November 4, 1890. This best and most comprehensive weekly in the world for young readers presents a rich and attractive programme. In fiction there will be "Campmates; A Story of the Plains," by Kirk Munroe; "Men of Iron," a romance, by Howard Pyle, with illustrations by the author; "Flying Hill Farm," by Sophie Sweet; "The Moon Prince," by R. K. Munkittrick; and "Yellowtop," by Annie Bronson King. In addition to these five serials, there will be stories in two or three parts by Thomas Nelson Page, Hjalmar Hjorth Boyesen, Edwin Lassetter Bynner, Harriet Prescott Spofford, Mary E. Wilkins, Nora Perry and others. Short stories, and articles on science, history, travel, adventure, games and sports, with hundreds of illustrations of the highest character, will render Harper's Young People for 1891 unrivalled as a miscellany of the best reading for boys and girls.

"The best weekly publication for young people in existence. It is edited with scrupulous care and attention, and instruction and entertainment are mingled in its pages in just the right proportions to captivate the minds of the young, and at the same time to develop their thinking power."—[New York Observer

IMPORTANT TO COLLECTORS OF TAXES.

The following act of Assembly which passed the Legislature at its session is one of importance to all Cellectors of Taxes. The idea has heretofore prevailed among Collectors in this county that they had two years in which to settle their duplicates, and some of them have believed that they were not required to pay over a cent until the expiration of the two years. It is very likely that the following amendments to the act of 1885 were passed for the purpose of correcting that impression. At all events Collectors will now understand how long they can hold public money in their hands.

AN ACT.

To amend section nine of an act approved the twenty-fifth day of June one thousand eight hundred and eighty-five entitled "An act regulating the collection of taxes in the several boroughs and townships of this Commonwealth, by providing the time in which tax collectors shall pay over taxes and make settlements, be and the same is hereby amended to read as follows to wit:

"The collector of taxes shall collect the taxes charged in said duplicates and pay over the same to the respective treasurers or authorities entitled thereto after deducting his comnission for the collection thereof, which is hereby fixed at two per centum on all taxes paid to him on which an abatement of five per centum is allowed and at five per centum on all taxes afterward collected. Provided, That where the total amount of taxes charged on duplicate is less than one thousand dollars the said collector shall receive three per centum on all taxes paid to him on which an abatement of five per centum is allowed. Provided further, That all taxes collected within the sixty days as provided in section eight of this act shall be paid over as aforesaid within fifteen days after the expiration of said sixty days, and all taxes thereafter collected during his term of office shall be paid over as aforesaid at regular interval of one month, and full and complete settlement of all taxes collected shall be made with the treasurers or authorities entitled thereto not later than three months after the expiration of his term of office. Approved June 2, 1891.

The School Ma'am's Last Day.

BEDFORD, July 9—This was the third and last day of the State Teachers' Convention. "The Pennsylvania State Teachers' Association and its Professional Values," was disgussed by Prof. G. L. Maris and Superintendent B. K. Buehrie; "Its Educational Values," by Prof. Hockenberry and Prof. Michener; "Its Legislative Values," by Prof. W. W. Woodruff. Rev. E. P. Pettymen, State Superintendent of Maryland made an approriate educational address,

The afternoon was wholly taken up with eulogies upon the life of Hon. J. P. Wickersham. To-night the teachers are being royally entertained at a social reception at the Bedford Springs Hotel. Many of the teachers will remain in the town for some time to partake of the famous waters. The convention has been one of unparalleled success in the history of the association, the enrollment being the largest many and the financial affairs in much better condition than ever before.

The Second Seashore Excursion.

The first seashore tour, which left here Thursday, July 9th, was a most successful one and many persons who were unable to secure space will avail themselves of the second tour, which leaves Pittsburg, Thursday, July 23d. This tour offers a choice between Atlantic City, Cape May, Sea Isle City, or Ocean City, as the rate is the same for each

The fare from Bellefonte for the round trip is $8.65; train leaving at 10.25 a. m.

A Trust Company Vindicated.

In the matter of the petitions filed by the Houtzdale bank, the First National, of Bellefonte, and the First National, of Huntingdon, for the removal of the guarantee Trust and Safe Deposit Company as assignee of the estate of Robert Hare Powell & Co., the master, Thomas J. Worrel, on Thursday filed his report of same in which he sustained the Trust Company and set aside the petitions for its removal.

DR. B. J. KENDALL CO.:
Sirs:—Last Summer I cured a Curb upon my horse with your celebrated Kendall's Spavin Cure and it was the best job I ever saw done. I have a dozen empty bottles, having used it with perfect success, curing every thing I tried it on. My neighbor had a horse with a very bad Spavin that made him lame. He asked me how to cure it. I recommended Kendall's Spavin Cure. He cured the Spavin in just three weeks.

Yours respectfully,
WOLCOTT WITTER.

Gents:—I think it my duty to render you my thanks for your far famed Kendall's Spavin Cure. I had a four year old filly which I prized very highly. She had a very severe swollen leg. I tried about eight different kinds of medicines which did no good. I purchased a bottle of your Kendall's Spavin Cure which cured her in four days.

I remain yours,

Where They Are.

Hon. John H. Orvis and family, Harry Keller, formerly one of Adjt. Gen. Hasting's clerks and son in law of the judge, accompanied by his wife; Ellis L. Orvis and wife, and two servants from Bellefonte, Pa., were registered at the Renovo Hotel Wednesday. They left yesterday for a two week's outing. Spruce Run, a tributary to the Susquehanna river, near Karthaus, will be their camping ground, where they will fish for trout and enjoy the exhilerating atmosphere among the tall pines and hemlocks of that reigon. There is a fine, commodious club house erected there by the Centre County Fishing and Hunting Club, of which Judge Orvis is a member. The association controls 23,000 acres of wild lands. They have the streams stocked and the grounds guarded against the invasion of outsiders.

At this season of the year when malaria lurks in the air, and bad colds not an unfrequent visitor, we long for a quick and effective remedy. There is scarcely a home without a sufferer from some of the many ills the flesh is heir to. A stimulant is also the intermediator. It is quick and effective. It brings relief and saves doctors bills. We can recommend Mr. Max Klein for anything in the liquor line. His silverage Rye at $1.50 per quart is the best whiskey in the market. He will sell any Pennsylvania Rye Whiskey six years old, at 1.00 or each quart or six for $5.00. Send for his price list and catalogue and mention this paper.

Quit A Boom.

The Philadelphia paper states that the Centre county delegation, namely, Col. J. L. Spangler, A. S. Garman, George Youngman, of the Watchman; Charles Kurtz, of the Centre Democrat; Fred Kurtz, Jr. of the Centre Hall Reporter, and executive clerk, W. F. Reber, succeeded in working up quite a boom for the holding of the democratic convention in Bellefonte, but that they were in the field two late and that Editor Meyers' speech carried the day and also got the convention for Harrisburg. Just Bellefonte's luck always one short or too late.

Merit Wins.

We desire to say to our citizens, that for years we have been selling Dr King's New Discovery for Consumption, Dr King's New Life Pills, Bucklen's Arnica Salve and Electric Bitters, and have never handled remedies that sell as well, or that have given such universal satisfaction. We do not hesitate to guarantee them every time, and we stand ready to refund the purchase price, if satisfactory results do not follow their use. These remedies have won their great popularity purely on their merits. C M Parrish, druggist.

REUNIONS OF THE VETERANS AND ELECTIONS OF OFFICERS.

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., July 14.—This has been one of the most interesting days for the Grand Army veterans. The presence of Ex-Governor Curtin and other prominent personages added to the interest in the proceedings. The Pennsylvania Reserve Association held a very interesting reunion with a good attendance of members, and the old war governor, the father of the organization, presided. These officers were elected: President, A. G. Curtin; First Vice President, Captain John A. Rhoades, Milton; Third Vice President, Major H. S. Lucas, Williamsport; Recording Secretary, James McCormick, Philadelphia; Corresponding Secretary, W. Hayes Grier, Columbia; Treasurer, James Morrison, Philadelphia. A board of Directors was chosen, composed of representatives of the various regiments and the artillery. The selection of the time and place for the next reunion was left to the Executive Committee.

The members of the Forty-fifth Regiment also had a reunion, with General John I. Curtin as presiding officer. A permanent organization was formed and officers elected as follows: President, General John I. Curtin, Bellefonte; Secretary and Treasurer, H. H. Benner, Company A, Bellefonte. A monument to the regiment will probably be erected at South Mountain. A. G. Curtin and the Depaatment officers were entertained at a dinner by W. G. Elliott at the Academy of Music.

An Interview With Blaine.

BAR HARBOR, July 13.—The Associated Press correspondent conversed with Secretary Blaine for a few minutes this morning. "I am as well as usual to-day. The sensational reports about my health sent to the press all over the county are false. I am not a sick man. They have magnified a slight illness into something serious. I am taking no medicine whoever. I go out every day, and often twice a day, I have a good appetite, eat whatever I desire and arise at 8 o'clock and retire at 10 or 11. In short, I live in my usual manner. There is nothing more to say."

Blaine spoke in his accustomed quick, unhesitating manner. He took a long ride this morning in an open carriag through the principal streets, and some distance into the country. He gets in and out of the carriage without any assistance. He sits erect, recognizing acquaintances in former years and does not seem fatigued by riding. The reports that Mr. Blaine is mentally unsound are utterly false and absurd. Emmons Blaine said this morning: "My father is constantly improving. We no longer consider him a sick man.

Another Railroad Accident.

ASPEN, Col., July 12.—A horrible railroad accident occurred at Aspen Junction on Saturday night. A special train of a baggage car and one passenger coach was returning to Aspen from Glenwood. The passenger coach contained about thirty passengers, mostly Aspen people. The train was backing from a water tank at the switch to the Aspen track, when a road engine was run out of the railroad roundhouse and the rear end of the passenger train hit the check valve on the side of the boiler, which exhausted the hot steam into the broken end of the passenger car, scalding thirteen passengers—five men, seven women and a child.

The car was thrown from the track. Al possible was done to relieve the suffering. Of the unfortunate passengers those who have died at present writing are; Mr. and Mrs. A. B Rogers, Miss Annie Phelan, aged 17, Mrs. W. Iroibly, Mrs. John H. Baldwin, Mrs. Frank Ellis and baby. The wounded who still live with hopes of recovery are Frank Ellis, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Leonor and Sister Mary Ann O'Donnell and Frank Leach.

—Lock Haven claims to have a better right to the choice of location for the new state insane asylum than Bellefonte. Of course, we know there are reasons why they should have it there, to save expense in transportation, for instance, but then again there is every reason to believe that Bellefonte can offer a better location by far than any to be found in Clinton county, and that is what the Commission will consider when they decide on the place.

SCIENTIFIC AND USEFUL.

Freight is unloaded by electricity.

Electricity is to send a train 150 miles an hour.

Professor Barnard has brought out an ingenious device for discovering comets, based upon the principle of selonium cell.

A new substitute for ivory, called lactite, has been invented by a Norwegian. It is made from skimmed milk, and will take any coloring.

A Newcastle inventer has applied for a patent to construct cycle wheels without spokes, using instead two disks of very thin steel, riveted together at the rims and axle holes.

The works of watches are now plated with palladium, which is a whiter, lighter, and more fusible metal than platinum. About one-seventeenth of a grain of palladium will, by electrical deposition, coat the works of an ordinary watch.

A new pianoforte keyboard having six rows of keys has recently been exhibited in Manchester, England. An octave is formed by six keys in two contiguous rows. All the keys are on the same level, and each note is separated from the next by an interval of two semitones.

It has been calculated that the electromotive force of a bolt of lightning is about 3,500,000 volts, the current about 14,000,000 amperes, and the time to be about 1-20,000 part of a second. In such a bolt there is an energy of 2,450,000,000 watts, or 3,284,182 horse power.—[Popular Science News.

The Washburn-Moen Company at Worcester, Mass., is making a series of experiments which promise to transform the rod and wire business. Copper is now used altogether in rods and wire where great strength and resistance to tension are required. Steel lacks this tenacity. It is stated, however, that the company's experts have discovered a process by which steel can be tempered so as to possess this necessary tenacity.

By careful experiments made at the United States Mint, says The Iron Industry Gazette, it has been shown that $5 are lost by abrasion every time $1,000,000 in gold coin are handled. The experiments were conducted with bags containing $5,000 each, and it was shown that the mere lifting of the 200 bags making up $1,000,000 to a truck to be removed to another vault, resulted in the loss stated, and that their transfer from the truck again made a second similar loss.

At a recent meeting of the Linnean Society at London Mr. Christy exhibited and described some specimens of honey from different countries. "Arbutus honey," from Turkey, is said to produce great drowsiness and sleep; "Eucalyptus honey," from Mount Barker, Adelaide, Australia, is said to possess valuable therapeutic properties, and "wool honey," from the Euphrates, which is really honey dew collected from the leaves of oaks and deposited by aphides.

Some cheap and simple process by which wood, especially sawdust, can be made incombustible is desired by a correspondent of the Bulletin at San Bernardino. The dipping in a solution of tungstate of soda will render sawdust incombustible, although the process may be too expensive to be practicable. It is reported that all the laundry of the ladies of Queen Victoria's household is submitted to this treatment, and some actresses, who fear their clothing may be ignited from the footlights, also take this precaution with their underclothing.

Professor G. W. Johnson, in his "Chemistry of the World," explains the character of the acids in many of the food articles used by man. Malic acid predominates in the stems of rhubarb or "pie plant;" the acid in oranges, lemons, etc., is citric; the acid in plums, apples, and pears is malic; the acid in gooseberries and currants is a combination of malic and citric; the acid in grapes is a combination of malic and tartaric. Some of the vegetables used though not looked upon as containing acids do, nevertheless, contain large amounts, as asparagus and cucumbers, for instance. The acid in the former is asparic, while that of the latter is fungin. This last named acid is one of the most injurious taken into the human stomach as food, which accounts for the common unwholesomeness of the cucumber.

LITTLE PEOPLE.

Philosophic remark of a tired little girl, who kept running out from her German lesson every few minutes to look at the clock: "How time flies!"

"What would have happened if Henry IV of France had not been murdered?" asked a teacher of a sharp looking boy. The prompt reply was: "He would probably have died a natural death."

"Why, Clarence," remarked a visitor pleasantly to a precocious 4 year old, "how much you look like your father!" "Yes, sir," answered Clarence with an air of resignation. "Everybody says that, but I don't think I deserve it."

Pupils who learn "by ear," without thought as to the meaning of things, contrive to afford a good deal of amusement to their teachers. Recently a teacher in a grammar school asked one of her boys: "What is the meaning of 'topaz?'" "A topaz" said the boy, "is where the mules walk when they're drawing a canal boat."

"This morning," writes a Sunday school teacher, "I gave the children a little talk about their souls. When I had done, I thought I would ask them a few questions to see if they understood what I had told them. So I began: 'What did God give us besides our bodies?' Perhaps you can imagine what my emotions were when they instantly responded, 'Laigs!'"—[Harper's Bazar.

The little 4 year old girl had been told that God would punish her if she were naughty, for he was everywhere and took particular pains with nice little girls. Never having seen God, she evidently did much thinking on the subject of this punishment. One day her mother started to punish her for something she had done, when the little one came out with the following politic and logical objection: "Mamma! won't you leave it to God to punish me? I'd rather have him."—[Boston Times.

A CALIFORNIA BIRD CAGE.

Pheasants and Quail Bred in an Enormous Aviary.

California may well boast of its big trees, its waterfalls of the Yosemite, and its magnificent fruit and vegetable products, but it has added another laurel to its crown in possessing the largest aviary in the world. An hour's journey from San Francisco by water and rail, the Chronicle of that city says, brings one to the quiet little town of San Pablo, in Contra Costa county, and a short drive from there is the old well known Alvarado rancho, now owned by Henry F. Emeric.

Over an area of 2,500 acres of fertile ground are scattered orchards and wheat fields that yield wonderful crops, and near the center of this domain is the old home of Mr. Emeric's father, now deceased. It is a quaint structure, with shaded verandas, and its roof is robed in season with a mantel of pure white Castilian roses. Fronting the house are parterres of choice flowers of innumerable kinds, bright with color and as fragrant as the breeze wafted odors of Ceylon. There are, in fact, 310 varieties of roses alone to be seen, and in the conservatory there are rare orchids and other valuable plants.

Through the vista of weeping willows and peach and apple trees, heavily laden with bellflowers and Winter Nellies, the aviary is seen. This feature of the place is an airy structure of closely netted wire sustained at intervals of 15 feet by wooden uprights, forming a perfect cage. It is 175 feet long by 60 feet wide. Within its confines is a miniature forest of quince trees, the tops of which emerge through the nettings. This, in addition to a covert of thick brush, affords admirable shelter for the birds in summer, while in the winter they have the use of a large house that is in the cage for their protection against the elements. With commendable foresight Mr. Emeric has stocked this aviary with English pheasants, and there are also hundreds of quail there, merely as a side issue.

Mr. Emeric estimates that he will have over 400 pheasants next season, and he proposes to set loose 100 or more of them each year to run wild through the country and will give many away to those who desire to propagate them. This will of course be of great benefit to all lovers of bird shooting, and besides will assist materially in increasing the numbers of what are now a rare species of fowl in this State. The pheasants are fed with wheat, and occasionally chopped liver is given to them. They are crossed with Bantam hens, the result being game cocks that are as pugnacious as their imported sires, and the pheasant is notably a fighting bird. The golden pheasants are only fit for an aviary, and occupy the position that a Sevres vase does in a drawing room. Mr. Emeric has just completed negotiations to have a large invoice of bob whites sent to him from the East next spring, and then he will increase the proportions of his aviary to three times its present size.

Wealth and Happiness.

Some very rich men have written answers to a correspondent who asked them whether wealth brought happiness. Most of the replies are interesting, but only a few contain anything new in sentiment or suggestion. The general refrain appears to be that the cares of great wealth more than offset the happiness derived from its use and possession. The fact is, that no general rule can apply to the subject. For instance, great wealth could not bring much happiness to a man afflicted with a painful and incurable disease, or to a man who has exhausted vigor and mortgaged vitality in the pursuit of wealth. It could not bring happiness to him who looks for happiness only in this world, and knows that he has but little of this world left.

Few men acquire great fortunes while at the time of life when, from a physical point of view, life is most enjoyable. John W. Mackay's answer to the query is that "he enjoyed poverty and hardship while winning wealth more than he ever enjoyed the wealth itself." Very likely. Not that Mr. Mackay was really delighted with poverty and hardship, but that he was young then, and the brave struggle of vigorous youth, with fortune ahead and perhaps in sight, had in it more real zest and pleasure than the actual possession of the prize in calmer and more calculating years. George M. Pullman voiced a similar feeling to that of Mr. Mackay. He was much happier, he said, when a poor and hardworking man than now with his millions, and Vice President Morton was also happier when a young man, clerking in a country store, than with his ample fortune today.—[New York Press.

Definition of the Word "Gentleman."

The latest authority, the "Century Dictionary," has among seven different meanings of the word "gentleman" the following pertinent definition:

"A man of good breeding, courtesy, and kindness; hence, a man distinguished for fine sense of honor, strict regard for his obligations, and consideration for the rights and feelings of others."

The publications of the "Early English Text Society" show on page 22 of the "Babees Book" these lines:

"Bare the so thow haue no blame;
Than men wylle say thereafter
That a gentylleman was heere."

Which in modern dress would read:

Bear thee so thou have no blame,
Then men will say thereafter
That a gentleman was here.

Barrow in his works, volume 3, chapter 21, says:

"For what, I pray is a gentleman? What properties has he, what qualities are characteristical or peculiar to him whereby he is distinguished from others and raised above the vulgar? Are they not especially two, courage and courtesy?"

Steele, in No. 207 of the "Tattler:"

"The appellation of gentleman is never to be affixed to a man's circumstances, but to his behavior in them."

Emerson, in his Essay of Manners:

"The gentleman is a man of truth, lord of his own action, and expressing that lordship in his behavior."

Finally, the well known bon mot has it that "A gentleman is never in the way and never out of the way."

In excavating at Nimroud a number of drains were found covered over with pointed and elliptical arches, each layer being built slanting so that it rested on the one immediately beneath it. This method of building renders a timber center or scaffolding unnecessary to support the stones until the keystone is in place. Experiments with this plan are now in progress in this country.

"Beech Creek Special" to Niagara.

Tuesday July 28th is the date decided upon for the Beech Creek Railroad special trip to Niagara Falls.

The train will be composed of comfortable Day coaches and Wagner Drawing-room cars, and will be run as far as Jersey Shore on the time schedule of the regular eastbound morning train. Stops will be made at all stations on the Beech Creek road to pick up passengers. Persons taking the train at non-agency station can purchace tickets on the train.

The special train will leave Niagara Falls returning Thursday morning July 30th and reach home same evening. All tickets will be good for return trip on any train on or before August 6th.

The rate has not yet been agreed upon but it is understood it will be below $6.00.

The trip will be first-class in every feature but at the same time as inexpensive as it is possible to make it.

CLOSED ITS DOORS.

LOUISVILLE, KY., July 10.—Financial circles recieved a tremendous shock this morning, when it was officially announced that the Falls City bank had closed its doors. It was a private corporation and has been in a shaky condition since last fall, when a run was made on it by its depositors. The liabilities are about $431,000; assets, nominal, $1,223,000. Its capital stock was placed at $600,000. It is not thought the peqositors will lose any of their deposits.

MERIT WINS.

We desire to say to our citizens, that for years we have been selling Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Dr. King's New Life Pills, Bucklen's Arnica Salve and Electric Bitters, and have never handled remedies that sell as well, or that have given such universal satisfaction. We do not hesitate to guarantee them every time, and we stand ready to refund the purchase price, if satisfactory results do not follow their use. These remedies have won their great popularity purely on there merits—C. M. Parish. Druggists.

Increase in Wages.

HARRISBURG, July 9.—After the 16th inst. the wages of puddlers at the General Iron Works and the Chesapeake Nail Works of Bailey & Co., and the Lochiel plant of the Harrisburg Rolling Mill company, will be increased from $3.75 to $4 a ton, notice to that effect having been given to-day.

DON'T BE DECEIVED

by dealers who "cut" prices. "Cutting" prices leads to "cutting" goods. For this reason and to protect the public, the genuine medicines of Dr. R. V. Pierce are now sold only through regularly authorized agents, who can sell only at the following long-established prices:

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery (for the Liver, Blood and Lungs), ... $1.00 per bottle.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription (for woman's weaknesses and derangements), ... $1.00 per bottle.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets (for the liver), ... 25 cents per vial.

The genuine medicines, which can be had only at these prices, are the cheapest remedies you can use, for the're guaranteed. It's "value received or no pay.' In every case where Dr. Pierce's medicines fail to give satisfaction, the makers will return the money. But, they want to be sure that you get their medicines, and not their bottles refilled or tampered with, or spurious imitations.

Refuse everything offered as Dr. Pierce's medicines at less that the above prices. They are generally spurious.

The Itata to be Seized.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., July 8.—United States Marshal Guard says he will seize the Itata before evening. The officers of the Itata offer to pay $500 penalty for sailing without clearance papers, and it is reported here that orders have been received from Washington to accept it and discharge Officers Mauzen and Tejeda.

Papers are now being prepared on three charges: First, clearing without proper papers; second, kidnapping a deputy United States marshall; third, violating the neutrality law. The marshall will take possession of the Itatia immediately upon her release by the custom officers. He says the action is against the vessel, not against the men.

Warden Brown Not Alarmed.

NEW YORK, July 13.—Warden Brown, of Sing Sing, says he is not alarmed over the threatened inquest on the body of the murderer Smiler by Coroner Levy. The warden says that the coroner has no right to exhume the body. He further states that neither he nor the witnesses at the execution last week will obey any summons from the coroner to attend an inquest on Smiler's body until the attorney general directs them to do so.

Gone

—all the painful disorders and chronic weaknesses peculiar to the female sex. They go, with the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Periodical pains, weak back, bearing-down sensations, nervous prostration, all "female complaints" are cured by it. It is purely vegetable and perfectly harmless—a powerful general, as well as uterine, tonic and nervine, imparting vigor and strength to the whole system. It costs you nothing if it fails to give satisfaction. It's guaranteed to do so, in every case, or the money is refunded. It can be guaranteed—for it does it. No other medicine for women is sold on such terms.

That's the way its makers prove their faith in it. Contains no alcohol to inebriate; no syrup or sugar to derange digestion; a legitimate medicine, not a beverage. Purely vegetable and perfectly harmless in any condition of the system.

Peculiar

Many peculiar points make Hood's Sarsaparilla superior to all other medicines.

Peculiar in combination, proportion, and preparation of ingredients, Hood's Sarsaparilla possesses the full curative value of the best known remedies of the vegetable kingdom.

Peculiar in its strength and economy—Hood's Sarsaparilla is the only medicine of which can truly be said, "One Hundred Doses One Dollar." Medicines in larger and smaller bottles require larger doses, and do not produce as good results as Hood's.

Peculiar in its medicinal merits, Hood's Sarsaparilla accomplishes cures hitherto unknown, and has won for itself the title of "The greatest blood purifier ever discovered."

Peculiar in its "good name at home,"—there is now more of Hood's Sarsaparilla sold in Lowell, where it is made, than of all other blood purifiers. Peculiar in its phenomenal record of sales abroad, no other preparation has ever attained such popularity in so short a time, and retained its popularity and confidence among all classes of people so steadfastly.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Is Peculiar to Itself

Do not be induced to buy other preparations, but be sure to get the Peculiar Medicine,

WHITE CAPS AGAIN HEARD FROM.

ONE OF BELLEFONTE'S PROMINENT CITIZENS THE PROPOSED VICTIM.

As most of our readers know one of the most successful pension agents in Central Pennsylvania is Mr. J. Miles Kephart, of this place. Where all other agents fail Mr. Kephart invariably succeeds. For convenience sake Mr. Kephart has established his office in the Register and recorder's office, in the court house. This morning the door and entrance to the office was found decorated with the well known skull and cross bones and the following ominous white cap warning:

"Dynamite and death. Mr. Kephart, take warning before July 18th ,and cease to rob the widows and orphans."

Everybody who knows Mr. Kephart knows that the above is uncalled for, as Mr. Kephart was never known to take more than the legal fee prescribed by law, and in many cases he even failed to get that. It seems a mystery how the warning got where it was as the court house was locked from Saturday night until this morning and the notice was there when janitor opened up.

For the satisfaction of the miscreant or miscreants we might add that Mr. Kephart is no ways alarmed, but if he catches the man who did the deed he will give him such an exhibition of his muscular power as will place him under a physician's care for many long weeks. A word to the wise should be sufficient.

In Memorium.

At the last meeting of the State College Cornet Band held on Tuesday evening, July 14th the following resolutions were passed:

WHEREAS, It hath pleased Almighty God, in his infinite wisdom, to remove from among us James I. Fulton, our leader and fellow-workman, one esteemed and respected by all with whom he came in contact, an earnest worker and Christian: be it

Resolved, That as we mourn this great and sudden loss, caused by such dreadful circumstances, we cherish and keep vividly in mind the daily life and deeds of our brother, and console one another by the utmost fraternal feelings, in and out of this organization. Be it also

Resolved, That we extend our most sincere sympathy to the relatives and friends of the deceased in their deep grief, Be it further

Resolved, That we put forth our energies toward the maintenance and improvement of organization which our dead brother had worked so faithfully for; that in so doing, we erect a substantial and lasting monument of honor and respect to his memory which we pray may be continued for generations to come. Be it finally

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family and relations of the lamented brother, and that to the widow, who so deeply mourns, we offer our kindest consolation and sympathy; trusting and strengthening her belief and trust in meeting our brother and her husband in a future, eternal and happy life.

This organization in behalf of the bereaved family and relatives, wishes to extend their thanks and gratitude to the many friends who so kindly gave assistance in the hour of need.

Making Hay In Bucks County

A good story is told by a Bellefonte man as to how they make hay in Bucks county. Just here it may be stated that it was the purpose of the man to show how much further advanced in the use of improved agricultural implements the farmer was in Bucks county than the farmer is in Centre county. The man said he went out one morning to pick cherries off a tree that stood on the edge of a twenty-five acre field of good clover. About seven o'clock the farmer drove into the field with a mower and commenced cutting the grass; shortly afterwards another mower went to work, following after the first. In the course of a half hour or so a hay kicker commenced work and the hay was tossed in every direction. In the course of an hour or so a four-horse wagon, to which was attached a hay elevator, was driven into the field and the work of hauling in began, and by twelve o'clock at noon that twenty-five acre field of grass had been cut and hauled into the barn and during all the time of making that hay not a man was seen on the ground, they all rode, either their horses or their machinery.

To the Firemen of Pennsylvania.

Under the above heading the following notice from the Secretary of the State Firemens' Association, appears in the American Firemen for July 9th:

The twelfth annual convention of the firemen of Pennsylvania will be held in the city of Lock Haven, commencing Tuesday, September 15, 1891, and it is desirous that this be the largest held. There are several measures of the greatest importance to be presented to the firemen of the State, some of which interest all firemen individually, and it is therefore especially important to have the full attendance of all fire departments and individual members of the association present.

The rates of transportation have been arranged for via all trunk and lateral railroads, and ticket orders can be had September 1, on application, to the Recording Secretary, W. W. Wunder, Reading, Pa.

Companies desirous of taking apparatus with them must make application to the freight agent at the station they start from not later than ten days before starting to secure free transportation for their apparatus, and give the agent time to provide cars for the transportation of same. Hotel accomodations are ample for all.

Mr. Gramley desires us to state that he has kept all the bills and taken a receipt for all payments made and any person desiring to see the same can do so by calling at his office in the court house and making the request.

We do not think, however, that anybody in Bellefonte will in any way whatever question the correctness of the above or doubt the validity of one item. In his capacity as chairman of the decoration committee Mr. Gramley very ably proved that he was the right man in the right place. We doubt very much if any other man could have put up the same amount of decoration for a cent less than one hundred dollars. Mr. Gramley charged nothing for his own labor; he went fifteen miles to his own home for a load of poles, cut them and hauled them and charged nothing for that and, in addition, paid several dollars out of his own pocket which he kept no account of. He now gives to the public the above statement that all may see how every cent of the amount expended was disposed of. Verily the citizens of Bellefonte are under obligations to Treasurer Gramley for the faithful performance of his part in the big celebration.

4 Mothers, 10 Children

These children are being brought up on Castoria. Read what the mothers say about Castoria. There is no opium, morphine or other narcotic substance in Castoria, The formula is printed on the wrapper of every bottle. It is perfectly harmless, pleasant to take and positively effective. Physicians prescribe Castoria, mothers give Castoria, and children cry for Castoria. It gives the child health and the mother rest.

"I certify that little Robbie Hale, of 466 Portland Avenue, St. Paul, was a thin, crying baby from his birth until he was given Castoria. He began to improve from the first week's trial. Has taken 13 bottles; is perfectly well; weighed 30 pounds the day he was 7 months old, and when this picture was taken. Robbie's changed condition has caused many mothers to use Castoria. It is the best thing for babies I have ever known."

FANNIE MULLER, Professional Nurse.

466 Portland Ave.,
St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 4, 1887.

"This is a picture of my twins, Charlie and William. It was taken when they were 5½ months old. They weigh 16 pounds each. I am indebted to Castoria for their uniform good health.

MRS. HERMINE SCHULZE.

1629 Lexington Ave.,
New York, May 18th, 1887.

"I enclose you photograph of my 'triplets, 2 boys and 1 girl—Maggie, Petie and Willie. I owe their health and strength to Castoria. It was through my neighbors' urgent appeals that I commenced its use, as both my boys were thin and inclined to be sickly. At present they are fat and hearty, they weigh 8, 8½ and 9¼ pounds, and are 2 months and 3 days old."

MRS. MARY KLINGER.

726 Cortland Ave.,
New York, May 23d, 1887.

"I enclose you photograph of my quartette, 4 girls. They are now 2 weeks old. The smallest weighs 5 pounds, the others 8 pounds each. My other children have all gained health and strength from the use of Castoria, and I have already commenced giving it to my little darlings."

Chinese Must Go Back.

WASHINGTON, July 10—Attorney General Miller has given an opinion to the secretary of the treasury that the Chinese convicted of illegal entry into the United States shall be returned to China regardless of the fact that they may have actually entered the United States from contiguous territory, such as Canada or Mexico.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

DR. G. C. OSGOOD,
Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

DR. J. F. KINCHELOE,
Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."

H. A. ARCHER, M. D.,
111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

Oil Struck at Ebensburg.

Johnstown Tribune.

Some weeks ago Hon. A. V. Barker, Philip Collins and M. D. Kittell, Esq., of Edensburg, and H. L. Mitchell, of Tyrone, engaged Litzinger & McGrain, of Cheat Spring, to prospect for coal on the Ludwig farm, east of Edensburg. They proceeded to drill, and have now reached a depth of of 450 feet. On Friday last, when down about 400 feet, it was discovered that the drill rope was thoroughly saturated with oil, showing that there was a considerable quantity of it in the hole. This indication still continues, and it is the opinion of the drillers that they have really struck oil in a considerable quantity. Whether the oil will be found in paying quantities, of course remains to be seen, but the discovery, so far as it goes, has excited considerable interest throughout the nothern part of the county. The well now being drilled is on one of the head branches of the Conemaugh.

A Big Flood at Melbourne.

MELBOURNE, July 13—The heavy and incessant rains which have been prevailing here for some time past have caused a serious overflow of the Yarra river. The streets of this city have been inundated by the overflow, which has not been equalled since 1863. All the railroads are blocked and many of the streets in the suburbs are entirely submerged. Thousands of people are homeless and the misery resulting from the inundation is widespread.

John have you seen that woman lately? John, in astonishment, What woman? That woman picking grapes for Speer's Wines. Just see her in another column and read about it; the wines are found by chemists to be absolutely pure and equal to the best in the world. PASTOR KOENIGS NERVE TONIC

Had the Desired Effect! II.

MANVILLE, R. I., March 8, 1891.

I, the undersigned, suffered from epilepsy for 6 years, had no appetite and could do no work whatever; consulted a number of doctors, but all said there was no remedy for my disease. I then took Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic, and am now in perfect health, and work all the time. Thousand thanks to your remedy.

PHILIP MONGEON.

95 PROSPECT ST., NEWARK, N. J., March 2, 1891.

I got some of Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic for nervousness and sleeplessness and it helped me; the first time I took it I had the best sleep I had had for several months. I also know friends of mine who used it and say it is the best nerve tonic they ever used. I write this that some sufferer may use your medicine and be helped by it.

DISEASES OF WATCHES.

THE ACTION OF THE ATMOSPHERE ON THE MAINSPRING.

"Your mainspring is broke," was the positive declaration of a jeweler to a young man as he entered and walked up to the counter, meanwhile probing for his watch. The young man hadn't said a word, so it is easy to imagine that he was astonished at having the cause of his being there thus promptly and positively foretold, says the Buffalo Express.

"How did you guess it?" he asked, when he recovered from his amazement.

"Didn't guess it? I knew it," was the jeweler's reply. "That is, I could almost have sworn to it when I saw you feeling for your watch. I guessed then that something was the matter with that article, and, having guessed that, I was ready to bet twenty-five dollars to one that it was the mainspring that was broken. And I'll tell you why: There's a certain time of the year—and this happens to be it this year—when, if I have two or three persons come to me with broken mainsprings I can make up my mind that I'll have twenty or thirty more of the same kind of customers within a very short time. Now, it's just a week and a day ago that a man came to have a job of this kind done, and up to to-day I've had no less than twenty mainsprings to put in.

"They break voluntarily; atmospheric condition has something to do with it. Now, I'll put a new spring in your watch which I guarantee for a year. It may last two or three years, and again, it may not last two days, one day or an hour. You can't tell; they're liable to break any time no matter of how good quality they are. I've had new springs break right after I have put them in."

Condition vs Theory.

Those who are in ill-health are confronted by a condition, not a theory, altho there are number of people ready and anxious to theorize about it. In ninety-nine cases out of a hundred S. S. S. will do the work of renovation. In cases of indigestion loss of appetite and general debility, this wonderfuly medicine acts with almost miraculous certainty. It restores the activity of the liver, purifies the blood and builds up the system. As a tonic for young and old it is without a rival. Though it is powerfull in its effects, the youngest or the oldest can take it with the most beneficial effects. S. S. S. has behind it a record of half a century, and is more popular as a household remedy to-day then ever before.

Take No Chances.

During the present heated term, surrounded by impure water and subject at any moment to epidemics, why risk your health, your happiness and probably your life, when a simple, pleasant and most effective preventative to human affliction is at your command. Physicians everywhere, and nurses will promptly assure you of the advantage of good pure liquor, such as Klein's "Silver Age" or "Duquesne" pure ryes. Goods that are without a compeer in the market, and the boast and admiration of everyone testing them. Ask your druggist or dealer for them. The "Silver Age" sells for $1.50 per full quart, and "Duquesne" for $1.25. If they do not keep it, send to the reliable wholesale liquor house of Max Klein, 82 Federal street, Allegheny. You will find pure Guckenheimer, Finch, Overholt and Gibson ryes, either at $1.00 per quart or six bottles for $5.00.

IMPORTANT DECISION.

LIQUOR MEN HELD TO BE NOT LIABLE FOR MERCANTILE TAX.

A decision handed down by Judge White, of Pittsburg, will be read with interest by Bellefonte liquor dealers. The Erie county mercantile appraiser visited the Erie wholesale house this year and fixed a state appraisment tax on their liquors. Mr. H. V. Claus refused to pay on the ground that he paid enough for the privilege of selling liquor. It is said that one or two Erie dealers paid the additional tax under protest.

Several brewers and a distilling house in Pittsburg went into court with the mercantile appraiser. They claimed that they paid a license tax and should not be assessed twice. Judge White ruled that the liquor license is a sufficient tax and that no mercantile tax is required of liquor dealers. In the opinion delivered at the same time as the decision, Judge White reviews the different license and tax acts of late years in an exhaustive manner, and concludes as follows: "Without referring to other acts the general review of legislation on the subject shows that the policy of the state has been to make dealers in the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors pay an annual tax to the state, like all others in goods, wares and merchandise, and generally a higher rate. Whether called a duty, a tax rate or a license fee, it means the same thing. Each subsequent legislation changing the classification and rate of amount to be paid, superseded the prior classification and rate. There is nothing in any of the various acts on the subject to indicate that venders of intoxicating liquor should pay two taxes, or one mercantile tax and one license tax. No doubt the legislature has power to impose such a burden, and the intention to do so should be clearly maintained.

"We hold, therefore, that the license fee required to be paid by distillers, brewers, wholesale dealers and bottlers, under the act of May 25, 1889, is all they are required to pay; they are not liable to a mercantile tax, in addition thereto, under the act of 4 May, 1841, and 22 April, 1846. This of course, only applies to them as dealers in intoxicating liquors. As dealers in any other goods, wares or merchandise they may be liable to the mercantile tax. The appeals in the five cases are sustained and the assessments set aside."

Heretofore liquor dealers have been assessed by the mercantile appraisers in addition to paying the regular license fee. The appeals sustained were test cases.

A Rich Triangular Case.

JOHNSTOWN, July 7—An interesting suit, the outgrowth of the flood, is on trial here. William H. Overbeck, who was drowned in the flood, had his life insured in the Northwestern Masonic Aid Association in favor of Mary H. Overbeck for $2,500, the lady being set forth in the policy and application as his wife. After the death of Overbeck Mrs. Jennie Overbeck, of Philadelphia, claimed that she was the only legal wife of the dead man, and as such asked that she be paid the insurance. The Aid Association decided the best thing for it to do was to pay the money over to the court and let the women fight it out there. The heirs of the dead man are also represented in this triangular fight

Each lawyer thinks he has a case. The woman living with Overbeck at the time claims the policy was made out in her name, and that she had an insurable interest in his life. The Philadelphia woman claims she is his legal wife, and by the wording of the policy is entitled to the money, and lastly, the heirs of Overbeck claim he did not insure his life for the benefit of his legal wife, as her name was Jennie F., and as Mary was not his legal wife she is not entitled to it; therefore, it goes to the other heirs.

Found Dead in Bed

Mrs. Grimes, a lady from Spring Bank, Centre county, who was visiting at the residence of Solomon Maurer, near Mackeyville, Nittany Valley, was found dead in bed Wednesday morning. Her age was about 50 years, and the caus of her death heart disease.

Important to Pensioners.

The following order is of importance to persons receiving pensions. It is the official notice sent out by the commissioner. It follows:

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
BUREAU OF PENSIONS,
APRIL 2, 1891.

The attention of pensioners on the rolls of this agency is called to the fact that by an act of congress approved May 3, 1861, a change is ordered in the date at which their quarterly payments shall be made after July 1 next. Heretofore all quarterly payments have been due and payable on the fourth days of March, June, September and December. By the law above referred to and by direction of the secretary of the interior pursuant thereto pensioners on the rolls of this agency will after July 1, 1891, receive their regular quarterly payments on or after October 4 January 4, April 4 and July 4.

Inclosed you will find your check for the payment due June 4, 1861, and also a voucher for one month's pension. On or after July 4, 1891 you will please execute said voucher and return it to the pension agent, who, upon its receipt, will promptly send you a check for one month's pension, accompanied by a voucher for the pension due you for the three months from July 4 to October 4 next. This latter voucher you will execute on the 4th day October next and transmit it to the pension agent promptly after that date, after which time your pension will be paid as heretofore indicated, on the 4th days of October, January, April and July. Very respectfully,

GREEN B. RAUM,
Commissioner of Pensions.

Lady Macdonald as an Author.

Just before her bereavement, Lady Macdonald, widow of the late Sir John Macdonald, completed her first ambitious literary effort in a series of articles for The Ladies' Home Journal, the first one of which will appear in the August number of that periodical. Last summer Lady Macdonald, with a party of friends, traveled in her privtae car through the most picturesque parts of Canada and in a delightfully fresh manner she describes her experiences on this trip, in these articles to which she has given the title of "An Unconventional Holiday." A series of beautiful illustrations, furnished by Lady Macondald, will accompany the articles.

Won Ten Dollars.

The senior editor of the Vidette won ten dollars last week on John Wilson, the popular escaped murderer of Centre county. We bet ten dollars with a Centre county man that the Madison, Wis., Wilson was a scheme, whereby a few county officials could take a trip to the West, on county credit. That funny escape of John Wilson will cost the county of Centre as much as the regular mode of hanging.—Jersey Shore Vidette.

Bellefonte Not In It.

A dispatch from Philadelphia dated Thursday says: The democratic committee met here to-day and decided to hold the next democratic state convention at Harrisburg on September 3rd. This conclusively shows that Bellefonte wasn't in it this time. We only hope the convention there will put up a candidate that will get licked like blazes for thus ignoring Bellefonte, the home and birthplace of all great men.

The long distance telephone at present being put up in Cambria county will likely interfere with the telegraph for conveying news. The line will be completed from Portland, Maine, to Pittsburgh, Pa., by September next. They Say.

That there will be no more strawberry shortcake until 1892.

That the telephone girl should not wear yeller shoes in the summer.

That gasoline stoves are dangerous if not properly cared for by people of judgment.

That the fire cracker was on a "bust" on Saturday and a smart Alec was arrested for shooting his mouth off.

That some of Clearfield's citizens risked their money on the wrong horse at DuBois and Houtzdale last Saturday.

That the "melon-cholic" days are with us again and the small boy is willing to take the chances on a slice off the fruit.

That it is now time to hear of the aerial navigator dropping into the ocean or lodging in the brush somewhere with broken bones.

That some people who are paying a big light tax and are kept in darkness, would like to know if they have no rights that the "bosses" are bound to respect.

That some people do not hesitate to rob Peter, but they do not rob him exactly to pay Paul, because they think Paul can do like the most of their creditors—wait.

That we are impelled to remark to those of our patrons who are still inpebted to us, "Suffer little sums to come unto us, and forbid them not for of such is our income made."

That before going away themselves clergymen should find out whether or not Satan has decided to take a summer vacation. Soldiers must stand by their guns in face of the enemy where no flag of truce is shown

That a girl's taste differs according to her age. At sixteen she wants a dude with tooth-pick shoes; at twenty-five she'll be satisfied with a member of Congress; at thirty, a country doctor or a preacher will do; at thirty-five, anything that wears pants, from an editor down.

Will Not Leave the Road.

Of our esteemed citizen, Lester Allison Haupt, Sr., the Lock Haven Democrat says: "The report that Colonel Allison Haupt, the oldest conductor on the Bald Eagle Valley railroad, was soon to leave that to go into business in Philadelphia, is incorrect, as the colonel stated to us only a few days ago that he had no intention of so doing. Although a little tired of railroading he has been at it so long that he dislikes to abandon it and thinks he will hold on a while yet. This will be pleasant news to the traveling public, with whom Conductor Haupt is immensely popular."

Groundhogs and Turtles.

When the Snow Shoe train arrived in Bellefonte Thursday evening the engineer had in his possession a groundhog which was captured on the mountains somewhere and which was disposed of to Mr. George Freeman, who made a roast of him for dinner to-day. The Buffalo Run railroad train hands brought with them a large turtle captured on dry land, and now if you know of any one who had turtle soup for dinner you can guess where the "crawler" came from. Verily game must be plenty along these two roads.

The Teacher's Convention at Bedford.

BEDFORD, July 9.—At yesterday afternoon's session of the State Teacher's Association Beaver Falls was unanimously selected as the next place of meeting. Mrs. Anna Moore, of Altoona; Miss Lelia A Cooper, of Allegheny City, and Dr. Magill made interesting addresses. Last night Governor Pattison addressed a large audience, and was followed by Dr. J. O. Wilson, of Brooklyn, who told of the interesting things he had seen during a trip through the great National Park.

Still Indefinite.

It was rumored on the street this morning that the Bellefonte Furnace comyany's works were to be put in operation next week. Inquiry at the office elicited only the reply, "we know nothing about it."

Fell from a Cherry Tree.

Word comes from Port Matilda of a Mrs. Jones having fallen from a cherry tree on Thursday afternoon, receiving injuries from which she died shortly after. No further particulars were obtainable.

FOR A WEAK BACK
WHITE'S KIDNEY AND BACKACHE PLASTER
There is nothing will do a person up so quick as a weak back. Women are the greatest sufferers from this trouble. You don't need a doctor to tell you that you have a weak back. When your back is weak it aches and aches without any let up, and a side ache is just about as bad or worse. Any lady who suffers from weak back or side should get one of our plasters. We could fill pages of testimonials from ladies all over the land who have found comfort and permanent relief from the use of our plaster, but be sure you get the genuine. Every good thing is imitated. See that the shape is same as above, and made by the Rochester Drug Co., Rochester, N. Y. You will avoid disappointment. All druggists sell. eod

—New wheat.

—Green apple pies.

—Very busy farmers.

—A beautiful day this.

—The oats are turning.

—The grain is over ripe.

—1891 is half passed away.

—Currant water ice is fine.

—Moonlight nights are arriving.

—Cherry time will soon be over.

—The national flag now has 44 stars.

—The soldier boys will soon go to camp.

—The camp meeting season will soon be opening,

—The nights are remarkably cool and pleasant.

—Thursday seemed to be a day for accidents and deaths.

—The Renovo railroad shops are now running on 8-hour time.

—Peaches are now selling in Bellefonte at seventy-five cents a basket.

—New apples are already in market. Green ones sell for 25 cents a peck.

—It wont be many more weeks until the fall theatrical season will open up.

—If some fathers knew where their boys spent the evenings they would be disagreeably surprised; an vice versa.

—A cow belonging to Mr. James Henderson was killed on the Buffalo Run railroad on Thursday afternoon, it is said.

—Very few, if any, of the Bellefonte pedagogues are in attendance at the state teacher's association convention now in session at Bedford.

—What a number of towns there are in Pennsylvania that want the new chronic insane asylum, and goodness knows there are none that need it worse than Bellefonte.

—There will be a reunion of the Knights of the Golden Eagle, comprising the counties of Centre, Mifflin, Clearfield, Blair and Huntingdon, in Huntingdon, on August 20th.

—Bardsley has now donned the stripes and hereafter will be known, not by name but by number. What a terrible ending for the life he was leading less than six months ago?

—Quite a gay time was had at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Mitchell on Friday evening it being the occasion of a German given by the young folks. Everybody present enjoyed themselves until a late hour.

—The egotism of the Philipsburg Ledger is beyond precedent. According to an item in its columns one would be led to think that there was nobody in Bellefonte on the fourth but Philipsburgers and Philipsburg organizations.

—If people who go away for the summer would only take their cats and dogs with them the town would be about three times as happy as it is. One howling dog in a back yard is enough to destroy the piety of forty-five people.

—An Altoona couple who had secured their marriage license in 1887 were wedded last Monday. That's nothing! there is a man in Bellefonte who took out a licencse and then skipped to keep from getting married and has since been sued for breack of promise.

—Counterfeit silver dollars are in circulation in Harrisburg. They are made of lead and washed with silver, bearing date of 1884. As soon as we heard the above we opened our cash box made an examiniation, but there werenone there nor any other kind for that matter.

—A number of Bellefonters went to Philadelphia on Wednesday evening to be present at the meeting of the democratic committee whose business it will be to-day to set the time and name the place for the holding of the next democratic state convention. Col J, L Spangler assured us that he would get it for Bellefonte without fail.

—Visitors to Boyd A. Cowher's restaurant are now greeted on their entrance to that place, with a great deal brighter appearance than usual. The cause of this is that Mr. Cowher has repapered the entire room and freshened it up completely. Boyd has already got to be an old hand at the business and all persons desiring a good meal can get it there.

—The band meeting on Friday evening was not productive of very great results. The charter members of the old band went into executive session and at nine o'clock sent word to the "waiting multitude" that they would take no decisive action that night but would be obliged to hold another meeting. The new boys went home and no knowledge could be gained of what the old band members were doing.

—A story comes from Johnstown of the death of a 17-year-old girl, of Morrellville, which could be ascribed solely to uncharitable treatment. The family owned property to the value of several thousand dollars, but because Mrs. Good, the mother of the girl, refused to sign remonstrances against the granting of licenses the tradespeople of the town boy-cotted the family. They would sell them nothing at all; no physician would attend the sick girl and when she died no neighbor would go to perform the last sad acts of humanity, but left the mother alone with her dead child. Such treatment is worse than would be received in a land inhabited with only barbarians.

THREE SADDENED HOMES.

TWO FATAL ACCIDENTS AND ONE SUDDEN DEATH NEAR STATE COLLEGE.

State College and vicinity was the scene of three sad occurrences on Thursday afternoon. The first was the accidental death of Mr. James Fulton, an employ on the Experimental farm, who was run over by a wagon loaded with hay and injured so fatally that he lived but about ten minutes. The accident occured just about dark. The men were out with a four-horse team for the last load of hay. The wagon had about threefourths of a load on when the accident occurred. Mr. Fulton was alongside the horses driving when, in some way, he tripped and fell and before the team could be stopped the heavy wagon had passed entirely across Mr. Fulton's breast. The unfortunate man lived only about ten minuts.

Mr. James Fulton was a young man about 30 years of age; he was married and leaves a wife and one child to mourn their loss. He was the leader of the State College band and was universally liked and his death will be cause of great lament among all his friends and neighbors. Not a man in that vicinity who was better liked nor a man whose place will be harder to fill. The funeral will take place at 2 o'clock tomorrow (Saturday) afternoon, interment to be made at State College.

GORED TO DEATH

On Thursday morning a three-year-old boy named Witmer was gored to death by a ferocious ram. The boy seems to have been left unprotected in near proximity to the dangerous beast and before assistance could arrive the boy's life paid the fofeit of some person's negligence. The little fellow was buried to-day.

FELL DEAD AT THE DOOR

On Thursday afternoon Mrs. John Homan, who lived about two miles from State College, fell dead in the doorway of her own house. No further particulars are obtainable. The lady was aged about 28 years and leaves a husband and one child. Funeral tomorrow.

Preliminary Band Meeting.

A meeting of persons interested in reviving the Bellefonte band was held in the arbitration room of the court house on Wednesday evening at 8.30 o'clock. Prof. W. T. Meyer was present and read different papers on the organization of a band and the essentials necessary to make one prosperous and proficient. The purpose seems to be to join the old band and then reorganize and start out with a full band of not less than twenty-five or thirty pieces. After a careful discussion of the subject from every possible standpoint, and all present having signified their willingness to join the organization the meeting adjourned to meet on Friday evening at 8.30 o'clock, when steps will be taken toward being admitted into the old band, in accordance with the constitution and by-laws of that organization.

We trust the efforts of those now interested will meet with success, as then, in due course of time, Bellefonte would have a band that could play with any similar musical organization in the United States. The band is to be composed of such people as J. C. Weaver, Dr. Dartt, Dr. Ward, Harry Schreyer, Will and Robert Garman, George Bayard, James Harris, J. M. Herr, J. C. Meyer, F. Waddle, Christ Smith, Robert Hunter, O. Dewit, William Derstine, and others whose names have been forgotten, but all that class of men who will help build up instead of keeping back a band.

And then the director, Prof. W. T. Meyer, will assist wonderfully. Mr. Meyer has the reputation of being one of the best band directors in the State and when he undertakes to do a thing he generally does it for all that's in it. When Mr. Meyer lived in Shamokin he organized the Rescue band, of that place, and a better musical organization than it could not be found in a week's travel. It was superior to the famous Milton band that visited Bellefonte on the 4th. Now let the citizens of the town show some interest in this new movement and help along the new Bellefonte band.

The "Hog's" First Trip.

The first I class engine, more commonly known as "hogs," to pass over the B. E. V. R. R., was engine No. 455, in charge of John Sessaman, of Tyrone, Tuesday, with fifty loaded cars bound for the sea shore and the New England states. William Snyder was conductor. The run was very successful. The reason these heavy engines could not run down the valley before, was that the bridges were not secure enough to hold the immense weight. Bridges have been replaced and repaired all along the road, and in consequence these large engines will be frequently seen on the valley road.

The Constitutional Army Triumphed.

WASHINGTON, July 8.—The representatives of the Chilian congressional party in Washington late to-night received a cablegram from Iqueque, signed by the minister of foreign affairs, saying in effect that the army of Balmaceda, which was advancing from Coquimbo to the valley of Huasco, was met by the constitutional army at a point four leagues south of Vallinar, where an engagement took place today. The constitution army, the dispatch says, obtained a brilliant triumph.

—Tarrying here last night for a few hours, waiting on the late train east were Al. Garman, one of the agreeable and popular mine hosts of Garman's Hotel and Charley Kurtz, the sharp and versatile editor of the "Centre Democrat", Bellefonte. Both gentlemen visited "The Democrat" and expressed their high admiration for the smooth running of our new Whitlock press.—Thursday's Lock Haven Democrat.

Policy and Morality.

Under the above title the Lancaster Examiner indulges in some reflections which are probably sound, but which we confess we have never been able to follow. Still they are worth reading and pondering over, and here they are:

A certain amount of political behavior is undoubtedly necessary to success in life, but there are various estimates among men of the degree to which they should sacrifice principle to policy. At one extreme we have the blunt man who "says what he thinks" in an offensive way when he is not called upon to say anything, and thereby estranges those who would otherwise be his friends, and at the other extreme the snug citizen who is afraid to express an opinion on any subject for fear of giving offense. At one extreme there is the political party constantly raising unpopular issues and going to the polls year after to be defeated, and at the other extreme the party without principles, ready to adopt any popular idea for the sake of success and the offices. Between the two there is every degree of political deportment. There is always the danger that action guided by thoughts of policy will degenerate into hypocrisy, and yet it is necessary that men should give thought not only to the principles by which they seek to govern their conduct, but also to the best means of presenting and maintaining those principles. No real sacrifice of beliefs or principles for the sake of success can be justified, but it is quite within the range of morality to act judiciously in the presentation of one's thoughts and the assertion of one's opinions. It is the common mistake of political leaders that they think it necessary to meet in some way every issue that may be presented. Their platforms are overloaded with fixed expressions of opinion on subjects upon which the rank and file of the party cannot agree. If they were more politic they would express opinions on essentials, declare their cardinal principles and leave current topics of minor importance to be settled by the individual voter or representative. So also with the individual. He is prone to express opinions at the wrong time or place when he is not called upon to say anything, whereas if he were politic and yet entirely honest he would keep his views to himself until called upon to give them expression, except as to the larger principles of action which he is prepared to maintain at all times. Very often one encounters some prosperous business man who attributes his success to his political behavior in not opposing those who had it in their power to retard or advance his fortunes. He sings the praises of policy, yet he has been in fact a sycophant without moral force or honesty of purpose. His success has not been earned by merit, but won by chicanery. He is a bad guide. The advice of Polonius to his son is a model of its kind in almost every line, and especially in that passage which reads—

"To thine own self be true,
And it will follow, as the night the day,
Thou canst not then be false to any man."

That is the primary rule of conduct, and any subsequent consideration of what would be political behavior at a given moment must be subject to that. "To thine own self be true," but if, being true and honest, sacrificing no principle of honor and justice, you can by politic behavior and a discreet silence advance your own interests or the interests of the cause you may have at heart it is your duty to act with that wise discretion. Negative proof of this may be had almost daily in the history of public men or politics whose ambition or cause has been wrecked by an impolitic utterance which they had no need to make. On the other hand, the success of silent men is often due less to any special wisdom they posses than to the fact that their habit of silence keeps them from making the mistakes committed by their more valuable rivals. One cannot be politic without giving thought and consideration to one's behavior, and that, at least, is something gained. The impulsive man is usually thoughtless. He acts without consideration and, however honest and hearty he may be, he does injustice to himself and to others by his impulsiveness. If he should try to be polite he would have to begin by thinking what would be best to do before doing it, and that is almost all that is required. He can remain honest while at the same time guiding his actions by reason and judgment. That kind of policy everyone should observe, and it is just as different from the policy of the hypocrite and sycophant as it is from the impulsive recklessness or brutality of those who pride themselves upon the boldness with which they maintain their opinions.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The undersigned having been restored to health by simple means, after suffering for several years with a severe lung affection, and that dread disease 'Consumption," is anxious to make known to his fellow sufferers the means of cure. To those who desire it, he will cheerfully send (free of charge) a copy of the prescription used, which will find a sure cure for Consumption, Asthma, Catarrh, Bronchitis and all throat and lung Maladies. He hopes all sufferers will try his Remedy, as it is invaluable. Those desiring the prescription, which will cost them nothing and may prove a blessing, will please address REV. EDWARD A. WILSON, Williamsburg, Kings County, New York.

What the Teachers Are Doing.

BEDFORD, PA., July 7.—The thirty-seventh annual meeting of the Pennsylvania State Teachers' association met in the assembly room of the public school building at 10 a. m. to-day. Addresses of welcome were made by John M. Reynolds and Jacob H. Longenecker, Bedford, and responses by Superintendent C. A. Babcock, Oil City, and Professor E. C. Lavers, Pittsburg. The report of the Higbee memorial committee, Professor J. P. McCoskey, chairman, was presented.

At the afternoon session the inaugural address of Dr. G. M. Philips, of West Chester, was delivered, and the following reports were presented: That of the committee on closer supervision, by Dr. E. O. Lyte, of Millersville; defects in the present method of licensing teachers in Pennsylvania, by Superintendent B. O. Youngman, of Clearfield county; Professor W. H. Cover, of Altoona; Superintendent J. M. Berkey, of Somerset county; Professor E. W. Moore, of Braddock; Superintendent R. F. Hoflecker, of Montgomery county, and Superintendent George J. Lucky, of Pittsburg, participated in the general discussion that followed.

In the evening there was music and an address by James A. Beaver, ex-Governor of the Commonwealth. The enrollment was large, there being over 400 teachers in attendance.

Beware of Ointment for Catarrh that contains Mercury,

As mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surface. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Haill's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally and act directly upon the blood and mucous surface of the system. In buying Haill's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co.

The Ticket in Pennsylvania.

Someone has been writing on Pennsylvania politics in the New York Sun. One paragraph is worth quoting, because of its blunders:

Senator Quay's ticket is State Senator Amos H. Mylin, of Lancaster, for Auditor-General; Speaker Thompson for State Treasurer, and William H. Andrews for State Chairman. In the event of the selection of this ticket, it will be defeated at the general election.

A more inaccurate statement than this could hardly be imagined. Pennsylvanians have no such understanding. There is no Quay slate or any slate whatever except the one which the candidates have made for themselves by announcing their intentions to go before the convention. Mylin entered the field weeks ago, and so far he has been without a competitor. Thompson became a candidate purely on his own account. Curiously enough, the Sun makes no mention of the fact that Morrison, of Allegheny county, is also a candidate for State Treasurer, and that so far is in the lead. It begins to look now as if he might be nominated. But there is plenty of time before the meeting of the convention for all sorts of changes, and it is perfectly well understood that no dictation whatever will be attempted. Candidates for the two offices will be limited only by the candidates themselves. It is not likely that Mylin will be headed off by some latter day aspirant and that some entirely new man will win over both Thompson and Morrison.

And then the Sun would have been more accurate if it had said that Andrews is not a candidate for chairman. That would have been the plain truth.

GRANDEST MODERN DISCOVER

Triumph of Pharmacy

The only true practical

ELIXIR OF LIFE AND HEALTH.

is one that promotes digestion, improves the appetite, cleanses the liver, purifies the blood, and stimulates brain and nerves without injurious reaction, and one that may be taken alike by adult or infant. Profane compounds, made of vile rum or bad whiskey, sweetened and flavored, under the titles of bitters, tonics, &c, produce effects far worse than the disease for which they are taken.

Vinegar Bitters is a pure tonic, a nervine without being narcotic, a purifier without poison, a liver tonic without purging, and above all, a life-giving stimulant without alcohol. The only medicine with such powers in the world.

A GENUINE TEMPERANCE BEVERAGE,

far surpassing alcohol in any shape as a tonic it might be called

since it stimulates, invigorates and regulates digestion, nutrition, secretion, excretion, respiration, and all the functions whereby life is maintained—we literally take in vitality in spoonfuls,

It is too much to assert that the equal of Vinegar Bitters does not exist, and no counterpart or compound with similar virtues has ever been known if remarkable for nothing else, would be immortalized by the production of the medicinal fruits roots and herbs of which this Bitters is composed. Many of them used by the Indians and the medical profession in the treatment of chills and fevers rheumatism, catarrh, consumption, neuralgia headaches, liver complaint, kidney disease, jaundice, gout, piles, boils, skin diseases, &c., &c., too numerous to mention, but easily understood when the action of the Bitters on the vital functions is remembered. The discovery was partly accidental but the present

—We notice by the Huntingdon papers that the Frank A. Robbins show, which arrived in that place on Saturday, was seized by the Sheriff on its arrival in that place, and the probablity is that it will remain in Huntingdon for some time.

—The Karthaus Times gets off a snake story that beats the record so far this season. That paper says that the crew on J. S. Michael's log drive killed 103 snakes in one day between Deer Creek and Karthaus. Out of the number 100 were copperheads and the balance rattlesnakes.

PICNIC AND EXHIBITION.

THE PATRONS OF HUSBANDRY IN GRANGE PARK, CENTRE HALL, SEPTEMBER 12 to 20.

The 18th annual picnic and exhibition of the Patrons Husbandry of Central Pennsylvania will be held in Grange Park, at Centre Hall, Centre county Pa., the week of the 14th to 20th of September. This popular gathering and encampment was attended last year by over 20,000 people, and the indications already are that it will be much larger this year, as upward of 100 tents are already engaged and every week brings in new orders. Tents are furnished ready put up and floored at reasonable rates to all who may desire to camp—entirely suited for private families.

Boarding can be had at reasonable prices at boarding houses on the ground or in private families in town.

Hotel accommodation ample to suit all. Hacks and carriages running constantly from hotels to the park, also to the summit of Nittany mountain, from which there are the grandest views found in central Pennsylvania.

FAMOUS PENN CAVES.

Accommodations are also provided for those in attendance to visit the famous Penn Caves, only a few miles distant, which is entered by means of boats. Carriages and hacks are run daily to and from Grange Park to the cave to suit visitors or excursion parties.

There is no better opportunity anywhere in the State for manufacturers to exhibit and advertise their wares. The majority of the exhibitors sold out their entire exhibits last year, and established numerous agencies and secured large sales as the result of their exhibiting at the Patrons' Picnic in Grange Park.

Fine stabling for the exhibition of cattle, horses, sheep, swine, poultry, etc., on the grounds. It is proposed this year to put up a suitable building for the exhibition of agricultural and horticultural products, with rare and useful plants, showing the process of growth and production.

Ample arrangements have been made for all the tents that may be needed for the shelter and protection of the people at reasonable rates, but tents should as much as possible be engaged in advance so as to enable the committee to secure a sufficient number of them.

A full and ample water supply is furnished free for running heavy engines and machinery, also for stock and domestic use, as the resources for water supply and pipings will be much enlarged over that of former years.

A Daily paper will be published on the grounds.

Excursion railroad trains will be run hourly for the accommodation of the people.

Admission free, and those desiring can go into camp on Saturday, September 12. Religious services will be conducted on the grounds on Sunday.

For further information correspond with Hon. Leonard Rhone, Centre Hall, Pa., who is general manager.

Caught at Last.

On Saturday Mr. Frank Galbraith, one of Bellefonte's leading jewelers, donned his best Sunday-go-to-meeting suit of clothes and departed in a state of high glee for our neighboring city on the banks of the Susquehanna, Lock Haven. His friends wondered at his good humor and smiling countenance, but a little secret leaked out on Sunday which, when known, will account for it all. It is said that on Sunday Mr. Galbraith led to the altar one of Lock Haven's fair daughters, in the person of Miss Cora Kerstetter, and there joined hands and hearts in that solemn compact in which they pledged to "live, honor, etc., until death do them part." The happy couple are expected in Bellefonte to-morrow evening. The DAILY NEWS begs to tender congratulations and best wishes.

Taking Depositions.

Some time since Judge Furst, of Centre county appointed Judge Metzger and Alderman A. H. Stead commissioners to take depositions here in the case of Warren W. Caldwell vs. Lewis G. Tewksberry. The case is one involving the title of sixteen tracts of valuable timber and mineral lands in Centre county, which were formerly owned by S. Q. Mingle of this city. In chambers yesterday afternoon the deposition of Mr. Mingle was taken before Alderman Stead, Judge Metzger having gone to attend the funeral of Hon. John B. Packer, at Sunbury. Samuel S. Perry, Esp., of New York city, appeared as counsel for the defendant.—Williamsport Republican.

Gen. J. S. Brisbin.

General J. S. Brisbin will be retired from active service Febuary 1, 1891. As General Kautz lately promoted, vice General Gibbon, retired, will be placed on the retired list in January, 1892, the promotion of General Brisbin before his retirement is probable.

General Brisbin is a Centre county man and was born in the neighborhood of Boalsburg. He married a daughter of David M. Wagner, of Bellefonte, a very handsome and excellent lady who died recently.

—"The Witch," New York's latest successful play, will be seen in this city during the coming season. It is founded on a phase of American history but little known to the stage—the witchcraft persecution in Salem, Mass, in 1892. It is said to be full of striking situation and supurb climax. An unusul amount of attention has been given it by the press and the general verdict is that "The Witch" is the most important contribution to the literature of the stage in recent years. Marie Hubert Frohman, the star of the play, has been highly praised for her exceedingly fine representation of a very difficult character.

Two Bands For Bellefonte.

Bellefonte now seems destined to, in the near future, have two bands. Our readers are fully informed regarding the effort being put forth to re-organize the old band into a grand new one; this scheme has fallen through. The members of the old band didn't seem to like the idea as presented and the way they proposed to take in the new organization did not seem at all favorable or even desirable.

For this reason the persons ambitious to organize a new band met on Monday evening in the court house and there decided to go ahead and organize an entirely new and independent of the other organization; buy their own instruments, etc., and be their own rulers. The new organization will not start with less than twenty-six live, active members. They will be under the leadership of Prof. W. T. Meyer and there is no doubt but that, in due time, it will make one of the best bands in the state.

We understand it is also the intention of the old band to take in new members, secure a leader and go to work again in earnest. Bellefonte should be able to support two bands very nicely and we welcome both organizations and hope they will both prove successful.

Robbery in Unionville.

Along about midnight of Monday night, Mr. Benjamin Rich, of Unionville, was awakened by hearing some one in his room. On opening his eyes he saw a man whom he supposed to be his son. Mr. Rich asked him what he wanted; the man made no reply but grabbed Mr. Rich's trousers and started to run. Mr. Rich sprang out of the bed and made for the man when the latter discharged a revolver the bullet of which whistled close past Mr. Rich's head. The fellow succeeded in getting out of the house with the trousers which contained about four dollars in money, some valuable papers and a silver watch valued at $65.

The neighbors were at once aroused and a close search was made for the daring burglar but all to no purpose as he succeeded in making good his escape, and up to this time has not been heard of. Mr. Rich certainly made a narrow escape with his life, and there is not the least doubt as to the punishment of that burglar had he been caught.

Got It On the Judge.

The following story was taken from the Curwensville Review: "His honor, Judge O. A. Furst, of, Centre-Huntindon district, made a speech at the celebration at Bellefonte on the 4th of July. The Judge is a fine orator and a big crowd had gathered to hear him and the other speakers. The Judge opened up his volcano of oratoy in fine style and everything presaged a brilliant effort. But the best of us make mistakes and the Judge made a fatal one in his opening. In almost the first sentence he asked—"What are we here for today"—and before he could answer the question himself some fellow away back in the crowd yelled out—"For Liberty and our license!" The answer knocked the wind out of the Honorable Judge for the rest of his speech. They say the fellow who gave such prompt answer had been disappointed in getting license last spring.'

—On Monday Chief Burgess Reeder published in the Owl a call for a mass meeting to be held in the court house. The call was printed in the first column, on the first page of that paper and following a double-leaded, triple-headed half-column article. As a result of the call published four persons who claimed to have known of the fact, independent of the Chief Burgess, the editor and the reporter of the Owl, assembled at the court house; what few others were there did not know of the meeting until personally informed at the court house and who just went in to swell the crowd. This conclusively goes to prove the advantages (?) of that paper as an advertising medium. Had Burgess Reeder published his call in the DAILY NEWS the court house would undoubtedly have been packed to overflowing. The above assertion is not only editorial blow, but is a fact, and advertisers would profit to make a note of it.

Still en Rampant

The burglaious disposed persons still infest Bellefonte and probalby will until a posse is organized, armed with doubli barrel shot guns, and the nuisance abated in a strenuous and emphatic way. Several times of late they have tried to effect an entrance into Rev. Mr. Laurie's house but each time failed. They have frequently been seen around Mr. Rhoad's stable and on Thursday night the police were notified and a search made all over the town but the birds had flown or gone to roost. What is needed is for every man to be his own policeman for sometime and rid the town of these pests at all cost.

—Mr. Robert Speer returned from his two weeks' vacation on Saturday morning and on Sunday officated in the Presbyterian church. His sermon in the morning was more than usually interesting and instructive. In the afternoon service was held for young men to which all the firemen of the town were specially invited. A large congregation gathered at the church in the evening to listen th the evening sermon.

Chronic Insane Asylum.

BELLEFONTE PUTTING FORTH AN EFFORT TO GET THE SAME.

Agreeable to the call of Chief Burgess W. F. Reeder a few citizens met in the arbitration room of the court house on Monday evening about 8 o'clock for the purpose of taking action in regard to seeing whether it would be just possible to induce the State Commission appointed for that purpose to locate the New Chronic Insane Asylum near Bellefonte.

The meeting was organized by electing Mr. Geo. L. Potter, chairman, and Mr. George B. Johnston, secretary. A letter was read from Mr. Kerlin, the chairman of the State Commission, in which it was stated that the committee would start on its trip to choose a location about the middle of August and would then visit Bellefonte. The contents of a circular describing what kind of a location is desired was also made public. On motion Mr. Geo. L. Potter was elected to be chairman of a general committee to locate a site and then confer with the commission after which the following committee was appointed:

Gen. James A. Beaver. Ex-governor A. G. Curtin, John P. Harris, Gen. D. H. Hastings, Col. J. L. Spangler, Hon. John H. Orvis, J. D. Shugert, F. W. Crider, Geo. W. Jackson, Hon. P. Gray. Meek, J. A. Feidler, Thomas A. Shoemaker, Chas. L. Gates, Chas. R. Kurtz, and Robert Valentine, with Geo. L. Potter, as chairman.

As stated above the object of the committee will be to get to-gether in the near future and discuss suitable locations and then wait upon and confer with the commission when it visits Bellefonte. The specifications require a tract of land of about 500 acres, arable, easy of drainage, situated near a grove and along the line of some railroad, and must have on the land good water. There are a number of place near Bellefonte that would do but the two most available are the lands at Boiling Springs or at Pleasant Gap. Either places would make an excellent location and is, perhaps, as close Bellefonte as it will be possible to get.

After the appointing of the committee as above named the secretary was instructed to notify each member of his appointment, and in due time the chairman will call a meeting of the same. Now if Bellefonte really desires the location of the new asylum near this place, we see no reason why it cannot be had if the proper effort is put forth.

Died at Milton.

On Saturday Mrs. Noll, wife of Rev. Miles O. Noll, of the Reformed church, received word from Milton that her father was dangerously ill; she immediately started for her home. On Sunday morning Rev. Noll received a telegram announcing the death of Mr. Folmer. The reverend gentleman departed for Milton this morning. Owing to this sad affliction there will be no preaching in the reformen church next Sunday morning. Mr. and Mrs. Noll have been married only about three weeks.

—Manager Al. S. Garman has a long list of the very best shows booked for the coming season, which will open the first of September. As a rule the class of companies which will exhibit in Bellefonte during the season of 1891—92 will be far superior to the companies that traveled last year. Of all Manager Garman has thus far booked there are only a very few which have ever appeared in Bellefonte. We feel certain that the amusement loving public will be given a rich treat in the quality of plays that will the coming season be rendered in Garman's opera house.

—From all accounts it seems that the old charter members of the Bellefonte band do not take very kindly to the establishing of a new band under their old charter. Just why this is so is a little hard to determine, as the band in its present condition is no pleasure nor benefit to the public or the band members. Under the circumstances they should rejoice that there is a movement on foot to fill up the old band and give Bellefonte a good musical organization, and should co-operate in any reasonable work to gain the desired end.

—To let Bellefonte down easy the democratic state executive committee promised to give this piece the convention next year if they would willingly forego the honor of having it this year; as it was thought wisest to hold it in Harrisburg, considering the fact that this is Governor Pattison's first year of this and it might be the wish of the convention to consuls him on some question—we presume hit presidential aspirations. All right; let Harrisburg have it this year, Bellefonte will be willing to take it next.

Letter List.

The following letters remain uncalled for in the postoffice July 13, '91.

Bently, John; Mrs. Clenell. George; L: Corman Alice, Harpster, D. B. Lotzgeslle, Ida Mrs. Lohman, B. L. Luse, Katie Lorianx, Arthur; Peters, Minnie; A. Milliams, H. H. Warner, Mary; Pulled In.

On Monday morning Mr. Jackson, the proprietor of a wagon show that exhibited at Milesburg on Monday, was arrested for breaking the Sabbath. The complaint was made by Mr. Harry Musser. The show arrived in Milesburg about noon on Sunday and at once proceeded to put up their tents. For this the arrest was made. Mr. Jackson was brought before the Bellefonte authorities and fined $9. He paid the amount and the show went on as usual.

Personal Pencilings.

Dr. E. S. Dorworth spent Monday night in Lock Haven.

Miss Annie Mills, of Lock Haven, is visiting friends in Bellefonte.

Mrs. Bosner has gone to Altoona and Hollidaysburg to visit friends.

Mrs. W. A. Boal and daughter, of Centre Hall, are visiting friends in Tyrone.

Miss May Bing, of Fleming is visiting at the home of Mr. E. C. Poorman, in Tyrone.

Mr. John C. Miller. wife and child have returned from a short visit with friends in Huntingdon.

Mr. C. A. Roth, who has resided in Snow Shoe for several years, will soon depart for other fields of labor.

Miss Mable Cowdrick departed on Thursday for Williamsport and Jersey Shore where she will spend the next month visiting friends.

Lawyer Cyrus Gorden, of Clearfield, was in Bellefonte all night Thursday night. Mr. Gordon makes frequent business trips th Bellefonte.

The Misses Saylor, two of the fair compositors in this office, picniced at Penn cave on Thursday and report having had a delightful time.

Mr. John Trafford was an arrival on the 5.20 p. m. train Monday, he having spent the last few days in Williamsport, on a visit to his parents.

Mrs. James Lane and children, of Philadelphia, are visiting at the home of Mrs. Lane's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Thomas, on Allegheny street.

Misses Emma and Mary Eskbauch, after spending a few days with friends in Bellefonte departed for their home in Tyrone on Wednesday morning.

Charles McCafferty went to Lock Haven on Monday to meet his son Charles McCafferty, Jr., of Bedford, and they both returned to Bellefonte in the evening.

Misses "Sib" Beck and Mame Gould, of Lock Haven, arrived in Bellefonte Thursday evening and will visit friends here for a week or so when they will depart for Altoona.

Mr. and Mrs. Hoffer and Dr. and Mrs. Hayes and child have returned from Atlantic City, their stay there not being as pleasant as anticipated owing to the cool and wet weather.

Hon John H. and Mrs Orvis and their daughter Miss Caroline, Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Orvis and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Keller, are out in the woods above Renovo on a camping out expedition. They departed on Wednesday and expect to be away about two weeks.

Ex-Governor Curtin was in Willamsport on Monday in attendance at the G. A. R. encampment. There is nothing the ex-Governor loves so well as a meeting with the old blue coats and we doubt not but that he enjoyed himself on Monday to the fullest measure possible.

Ex-Governor Andrew G. Curtin arrived from his home in Bellefonte at noon to-day and is quartered at the Park Hotel. He came alone and walked from the cars up the hotel steps without any apparent effort. The old war horse does not look a month older than he did ten years ago and has the same faculty of remembering faces and names as ever. He was attired in a light colored suit of clothes, wore a colored shirt slouch hat and carried his cane as usual. He did not know exactyl how long he would remain in Willamsport.—Williamsport Republican.

—Every house in Unionville was equal to a well-stocked arsenal on Tuesday night. The little adventure of Mr. Benjamin Rich on Monday night created no end of excitement and on Tuesday every man that owned a gun or pistol got it in readiness for action and when he went to bed at night no doubt the pistol occupied the same bed. If any burglar had fooled around a Unionville man last night he would most undoubtedly have received a warm reception.

—The air seems to be thick with rumors regarding Bellefonte's furnaces, nail works, glass works, etc, but nothing definite can be learned about any maeritalchange from the present condition of affairs. It is to be hoped, however, that some of the rumors about starting up, increasing the force of laborers, and such like may prove to be a reality in the near future.

—The widow Tate and family are moving from the house of Rev. J. A. Woodcock on Lamb street, to the house of Mr. John I. Rankin, on Penn Street.

A Terrible Accident

TWO MEN SERIOUSLY INJURED BY A PREMATURE EXPLOSION.

About 9.30 o'clock Wednesday morning two men, Cherles Heverly and Lyman Corman, were seriously injured by a premature explosion of a can of blasting powder at A. G. Morris's limestone quarry just below town. The particulars of the accident are about as follows:

A hole had been drilled about 6 feet deep and then "squibbed." After, as they supposed thoroughly swabbing it out, the two men set about charging it for a blast. Mr. Corman had inserted the fuse and Mr. Heverly was pouring in the powder out of a can which contained about six pounds of blasting powder, when all at once there was a terriffic explosion of the powder. Heverly was blown down over the face of the rock landing on a stone pile some thirty feet below. Corman wrs just blown against the face of the rock. Both men were badly burned and considerably cut up about the face and hands, but Heverly was by far the most seriously injured. He had a cut on the top of his head about six inches in length. The eyes of both men were burned and swelled shut.

Gorman was able to walk to his home, on Allegheny street, with the assistance of two men. Heverly was able to walk out of the quarry and from there was taken in a carriage to his home on Quaker Hill, near Lewistown pike. Thelatter's clothes were most all burned off of him. Though the injuries of both men are serious it is not believed that either of them will prove fatal. Drs. Harris and Hayes were immediately summoned and rendered all the aid possible.

It is believed the explosion was caused by a small piece of burning fuse that must have lodged in some crevice of the hole when the first squib was put off. Lyman Corman is a man aged about thirty years. He is married and has one child. Charles Heverly is a man well up in years. Married and has seven children, most of whom are grown up. It is to be hoped that the injuries of both men will not prove as serious as was first feared.

Married.

At the bride's home, Jonathan Shaffer's, on Jones street, yesterday evening, by Rev. George W. Gerhard, Frank Galbraith, of Bellefonte, and Miss Cora Karstetter, of Lock Haven.

Mr. Galbraith is a jeweler in the Bush House block, in Bellefonte, and a very industrious and clever young man, well off and comfortably fixed. He has a fine establishment and is sure to make a good husband. Miss Karstetter is a fine-looking young lady, and we wish the newly married couple much success.—L. H. Democrat.

—The purchasers of peaches this summer will not be obliged to "fetch the basket back." The receivers of fruit in Philadelphia met and decided to fix the price of a peach basket at 2½ cents, which will be paid the shipper and no redemption. As a result no baskets will be returned to the shippers, and all peaches will be purchased in original packages.

—On Monday evening there was a full-fledged cow boy passed through Bellefonte. He was arrayed in the customary buckskin clothing with a wide sombrero hat, a cartridge belt, well filled, and a brace of revolvers. He rode a texan pony and was leading three others. He was on his way to Williamsport to attend the G. A. R. encampment.

—This morning Ex-sheriff and Mrs. Lingle and a carriage load of friends went to Mackeyville, Clinton county, to attend the funeral of Mrs. Lingle's brother-in-law, Mr. Nathan Maurer, who died in that place on Saturday morning, of cancer of the bowels. Mr. Maurer was a retired farmer. The funeral occurred this afternoon at one o'clock.

Immense Peach Crop.

The Centre county peach crop, from all accounts, will be immense. William Alexander, who owns the beautiful "Mountain Home" farm on the top of Muncy mountain, has 500 thrifty trees, and if nothing happens them will have 800 bushels of the delicious fruit.—L. H. Democrat.

—In many of the townships of this county the Supervisors of roads are posting notices to land owners to cut and destroy Canada thistles growing upon their property. In case the notice is not complied with the thistles will be cut by the Supervisor at the expense of the person who neglects to do so.

—W. F. Reber, when in Philadelphia on Thursday, was interviewed regarding Governor Pattison's presidential aspiration and gave it as his opinion that the Governor had none; and the Pennsylvania would be solid for Grover Cleveland.
